

2020 YEAR IN REVIEW: March - July

March

Shelburne Mayor Wade Mills has announced the Town is closing all municipal facilities until further notice in response to the COVID-19 global pandemic.

Shelburne Town Hall, the Shelburne Police Station, Shelburne Fire Hall, local library and Centre Dufferin Recreation Centre will be closed for at least the next two weeks as the municipality attempts to slow the spread of the novel coronavirus in our community.

Mayor Mills met with Shelburne Police Chief Kent Moore and Shelburne Fire Chief Brad Lemaich on Monday afternoon (March 16) to discuss various measures municipal leaders could, potentially, implement to maintain the safety of local residents and ensure the continuity of essential municipal operations.

During that meeting, Mayor Mills recalls, Wellington-Dufferin-Guelph Public Health announced the Dufferin-Caledon region has its first confirmed case of COVID-19.

While not entirely unexpected, the news is still unsettling and certainly reinforces the need to take strong and sensible action, Mayor Mills said. In some respects, we are lucky that we can learn from the experiences of other countries who have already been impacted by COVID-19 on a large scale. One of the lessons we can take away is that the spread of this virus can be greatly slowed if governments at all levels act early, aggressively and intelligently.

Effective as of 4:30 p.m. on Monday (March 16), Shelburne Town Hall is completely closed to the public.

The Town of Shelburne has declared a State of Emergency in response to the continued COVID-19 pandemic, however Mayor Wade Mills is keen to nip any immediate panic or worry local residents may feel in the bud.

Let me be very clear, this is a legal declaration and does not mean that we face an immediate increased threat, nor does it mean that we face an impending loss of control of the situation, Mayor Mills said. To the contrary, in fact, this declaration will allow us to get a tighter grip on the situation and will expand the weapons in our arsenal so that we can fight this threat more efficiently and effectively.

Shelburne is the latest municipality in the area to enact its emergency protocols. The Town of Caledon was the first to do so last Wednesday (March 18), with the Town of Mono and Town of Orangeville following suit.

More than 1,000 individuals have visited the new drive-thru COVID-19 assessment clinic at Headwaters Health Care Centre since it was opened last Thursday (March 19).

Wellington-Dufferin-Guelph Public Health has issued an order requiring all persons to wear face masks while visiting local stores and businesses.

The best available evidence indicates face coverings reduce the possibility of transmission of COVID-19, said Dr. Nicola Mercer, Medical Officer of Health for Wellington-Dufferin-Guelph. By ensuring we can move to Phase 2 in the safest way possible, we are all making an investment in a safer community.

Made as Dufferin enters Phase 2 of reopening in the wake of COVID-19, the order was issued by Dr. Mercer at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday (June 10) and will come into effect at 12:01 a.m. on Friday, June 12.

Monday night's Council meeting heard two proclamations from Mayor Wade Mills, one proclaiming June as Pride Month in Shelburne and the second, proclaiming June 21st as National Indigenous Peoples Day in the Town. Following these, the Mayor expressed his thoughts on an issue that would become almost the theme of this meeting, racism and the reactions to it. Mayor Mills said that he personally felt that he could and should do more about confronting this issue, so recently amplified by the murder of George Floyd, a black man, by a police officer, in Minneapolis, Minnesota on May 25.

The mayor said that the silence of friends, not the words of enemies, allows racism to flourish and exist.

Over a hundred protestors marched through the streets of Shelburne on Sunday (June 14) as part of a Black Lives Matter protest one of many that have swept the nation in a stance against racism.

What we have seen in towns and in cities across North America, and what we are witnessing right here today, I believe, is evidence of a major sea-change, said Shelburne Mayor Wade Mills, addressing the crowd outside Town Hall. We've seen demonstrations in the past, but to me this really feels different this time and I think all of you know what I'm talking about.

The crowd of protestors started the peaceful demonstration at the Centre Dufferin Recreation Complex and made their way to Shelburne Town Hall. Organizers Shyanne Ricci and Hailey McLarty lead the march, carrying a sign that read Shelburne Stands Together.

Ricci and McLarty both spoke to the crowd before the march, touching on their reasons for organizing the event.

We started this to show that the Town of Shelburne, as a community, will acknowledge the racism and hateful acts taking place in the world, as well as showing full support for those affected by racism and promoting the need for change, said Ricci.

Some of us might not be subjected to racism on a personal level, but that does not mean that it is not happening in our community and others every single day, said McLarty.

Some protestors carried signs written with messages such as Black Lives Matter and Shelburne United, while others could be heard chanting no justice, no peace, no racist police and hands up, don't shoot as the crowd made its way down Owen Sound St.

Standing outside Town Hall the crowd followed a call and response chant of no justice, no peace and black lives matter. Cars driving by also took the time to honk in support of the movement.

Mayor Wade Mills, Deputy Mayor Steve Anderson, and local pastor Jay Wagstaff spoke to gathered protestors. The speeches touched on the need for further action, the acknowledgment to be better and Shelburne's role in the movement for justice.

? Amaranth Mayor Bob Currie has been removed from his position as chair of a County committee following comments he made about the LGBTQ community in June.

?There is simply no place in leadership at any level that includes hateful and divisive comments that serve only to hurt,? said Dufferin County Warden Darren White in a statement to county council last week.

Currie was asked by Warden White to step down from his role as chair of the Infrastructure and Environmental Services Committee last Thursday (June 25).
