Treatment fight shows 'power of politics': PC leader

BY BROCK WEIR

It was a hard-fought two-month campaign but, at the end of the day, the battle to get the Ontario Liberals to reverse their stance on funding autism treatment was one worth having, according to Progressive Conservative leader Patrick Brown.

Speaking to the Shelburne Free Press, Mr. Brown says the result of bringing the "government to its knees...shows you the power of politics," and the result left him feeling "very proud." "When the Government announced they were going to make this cut to take 2,200 kids off the list for IBI (Intensive Behavioural Intervention), essentially saying that Autism doesn't exist after the age of five, I was disgusted by it and I said we're not going to stop and we're not going to relent until we bring the government to its knees on this because it is unacceptable," said Mr. Brown. "We held three rallies outside at Queen's Park and every day at Queen's Park we brought up stories of children. At the beginning of our twomonth campaign, the Liberals were saying it was wasted money and it wasn't needed, that IBI was a waste of time. Then, two months later, we held the Government in a complete reversal and announced they were going to fund IBI for kids after [the age of] five. It shows you the power of politics."

The Liberals, he says, "underestimated" the determination of Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones in this fight. Ms. Jones was the PC party's point person on this issue and kept the matter in the forefront of fellow provincial politicians and constituents alike.

Millennial families market friendly

BY MARNI WALSH

Rebecca Landman of Landman Gardens and Bakery, located just north of Grand Valley, is a familiar vendor who locals and cottagers alike have been greeting weekly at the Shelburne Farmers' Market since its inaugural season three years ago.

The 26-year-old entrepreneur took some time this month to talk to the Shelburne Free Press about her enthusiasm for the market.

The Landman farm has been in the family since 1969, with a primary business of dairy, but, in recent years, the farm has "become quite diverse," explains Rebecca.

She now grows vegetables, raises chickens, turkeys, lambs and pigs and has a farm store where customers can purchase farm fresh eggs, preserves, produce, meat and baking.

Shelburne residents have easy access to the delicious products of Landman Gardens and Bakery at the Shelburne Farmer's Market on First Street every Thursday afternoon.

"One big trend at the market is young families, mainly millennials coming to do their weekly grocery shopping at the market [and] this is a great trend," says Rebecca, who seems to meet every market day with enthusiasm. "This generation is incredibly knowledgeable; they don't spend their money on just anything always doing their research first.

"Having local markets is a great way to help people access local food. It is also a great educating piece; we are able to talk to our customers about what it takes to grow a tomato or raise a laying hen. Most people are disconnected from their food, so these relationships are vital." Rebecca's newest product on the farm this year is chicken.

"We were approved for artisanal quota, allowing us to raise up to 800 birds," says the young farmer. "Our chicken is GMO free, hormone and antibiotic free and raised on pasture. We will sell whole birds, halves and lots of individual cuts."

Recently, at the market, Rebecca says she had been bringing lots of cinnamon buns.

"They are a fan favourite - must be the cream cheese icing."

She says she finds "customers are looking for homemade delicious food, whether it is pies, cookies, jam, meat pies and more."

There is a real feeling of family as you walk through the tents on First Street Thursday afternoons at the market, and Rebecca has high praise for all of the vendors, "They are all great - we are constantly promoting each other's businesses," she says.

For example, I bought Maple Grove strawberries and then made them into strawberry jam. We make sure to tell our customers those

"She did a phenomenal job and she felt it passionately," says Mr. Brown. "With the stories of these children, I could tell in her eyes she was talking about them as if they were her own children. Now all those families are not going to be in the dark without service and we are proud we were able to get a win for those families on this."

With two years left before Ontarians once again go to the polls – or, as Mr. Brown corrects, "one year and 10 months," but who's counting? – he is in the midst of making sure the PC party doesn't suffer another, in his words, "unmitigated disaster" at the polls.

Although Ms. Jones secured Dufferin-Caledon for the Progressive Conservative party the last time around, the Party's message failed to sell in many other parts of Ontario, creating an image Mr. Brown says he is working hard to dispel.

"The party ran on a ridiculous policy to cut 100,000 jobs [and] I think we were too narrow cast," he says, pointing to recent public opinion polls which have shown the Tories on the rise in the 905 and heading north. "I think the reason we are in a better light today is we are building a more modern, inclusive PC party. I don't care who you love, where you're born, the colour of your skin, how much money you have, if you belong to a union or not, you have a home in our party.

"People want to be fiscally responsible. They want an honest, transparent government. They don't want something rabid and ideological. The public is fed up. They are fed up with a government with five OPP investigations, they are sick and tired of the hydro rates. They want a reasonable and pragmatic alternative and I think we're offering that now."

So, they have some work to do. Mr. Brown says they are going to continue going out there presenting a policy "simply about creating the building blocks" bring Ontario back to being a "have" province rather than a "have not" province. This includes cutting red tape, investing in infrastructure to combat gridlock and get products to the marketplace, focusing on affordable energy prices, and "evolving our education system to graduate young people for the jobs of today."

"I thought the party before was out of touch," says Mr. Brown. "I didn't run to say nice things and say it wasn't our fault that we lost. It was our fault. The party was out of touch. The party only had 10,000 members. It needed a complete overhaul. We had become almost Republican in our positions, always voting against everything the Liberals did. I say there is no monopoly on a good idea. We will vote for anything if it makes sense for Ontario. I don't care if it is a Liberal idea or an NDP idea, if it makes sense for Ontario we will vote for it. I am not going to be blindly ideological or blindly partisan.

"There is an incredible appetite for change. I think the biggest challenge will be coming up with policy from left field, like was done before, whether it is faith based, or 100,000 job cuts, and I have no intention of doing that."

In Loving Memory

A life well lived that mattered.

On the day I died, everything I worried about was a rendered useless and a total waste of time. Worry doesn't change anything, all it does is steal your joy and keeps you very busy doing nothing. All the small and large anxieties that stole any sleep from me each night were rendered powerless. The deep and towering mysteries about life and death that so consumed my mind were finally clarified in a way that they could never be before while I lived. These things certainly all came true on the day that I died.

On the day I died.

I was trying to put a smile on the faces of everyone who came to watch the parade I was planning on being a part of but unfortunately the smiles turned to shock sadness and disbelief. Try not to squander a priceless moment worrying about all the things that happened on the day I died, because many of those things are either not my concern or beyond my control. Yet for as much as happen on that day, one more thing happened. On the day I died, the many people who really knew and truly love me started to deeply grieve. They began to feel a huge void. They started to feel very cheated. They felt they were not ready for what had happened. They felt as though a part of them had died as well. And on that day, more than anything in the world they wanted more time with me. I know this because I love and watch over them every day. And so knowing this, while your still alive try to remember that your time with family and friends is brief, short lived and so very precious—so do your best not to waste a second of it. Friends, those other things have an insidious way of keeping you from living even as you live; vying for your attention, competing for your affections. They rob you of the joy of this unrepeatable, uncontainable, ever-evaporating "Now" with those who love you and want only to share it with you.

Don't miss the chance to "DANCE" with them while you can.

It's easy to waste so much daylight in the days before you die.

Don't let your life be stolen every day by all that you believe matters, because on the day you die, much of it simply won't.

Your life is made up of two dates. The day you born and the day you die. Between both dates is a dash. Yes, you just like I have, will die one day. But before that day comes:

"LIVE, LIKE I DID"

make the most of the dash.

Ontario's economy continues to go down the wrong path

BY SYLVIA JONES. MPP DUFFERIN-CALEDON

"T.F.E. Claridge, Publisher 1903-1964

Over the years, the Progressive Conservative Caucus and bond rating agencies have warned about Ontario's growing debt crisis.

Last week, the Canadian Taxpayers Federation confirmed our warnings by announcing Ontario's debt has reached $300 billion for the first time ever in our province's history. Now, Ontario's Financial Accountability joins the group in highlighting issues with the province's ever growing debt.

In 2015, the provincial government appointed Stephen LeClair as Ontario's Financial Accountability Officer (FAO) to report to the Ontario Legislature by providing independent analysis on the province's financial state.

On July 19, the FAO warned that our province's net debt is set to increase by over $50 billion by 2020-21 to a record $350 billion. In the past six years, Ontario's net debt doubled due to this government's financial mismanagement.

As quoted by the FAO, "Ontario has the highest debt burden among the major provinces, carrying $2.40 in net debt for each dollar of provincial revenue."

What's more concerning is that interest on the debt is currently the third highest expenditure in the province. If servicing the debt were a Ministry, it would have the third largest budget, behind only health and education. Additionally, given that interest rates are at a record low, the FAO noted that with each one point increase in interest rates interest payments will rise by $350 million.

The FAO also predicts Ontario will run annual deficits from 2018-19 to 2020-21 that will result in our province's net debt to continue to rise. This confirms what we have been saying all along – the government is using one-time money asset sales like the sale of Hydro One, contingency funds, and tax increases to artificially balance the budget in an election year.

Not only did the FAO warn about Ontario's financial state, but has repeatedly highlighted the government's unwillingness to provide information they are obligated to under the Financial Accountability Officer Act. Last year, the FAO made six information requests to various Ministries and public entities; however none of these requests have been completed by the government. This lack of transparency prevents the FAO as well as the official opposition from holding this government accountable for their years of reckless management of Ontario's economy.

Ottawa Journal:

Canada Child Benefit - A disappointment for too many Canadian families

BY DAVID TILSON, MP DUFFERIN-CALEDON

The previous Conservative government always made hard-working Canadian families a priority. It did this by consistently delivering considerable tax relief to families in every budget since forming government in 2006. This was done through measures such as: establishing and expanding the Universal Child Care Benefit (UCCB); enacting the Family Tax Cut; increasing the annual Childcare Expense Deduction Limit; introducing and doubling the Children's Fitness Tax Credit; and establishing the Children's Art Tax Credit. Sadly, the current Liberal Government cancelled all of these initiatives and recently began rolling out its Canada Child Benefit (CCB), which fails to provide far too many families with the financial support they require when they need it most.

In July, Canadian families received their first CCB cheque. The current Liberal Government claims this new benefit, "puts more money in the pockets of nine out of ten families, and helps them with the high costs of raising children." The current Government has also said, "The CCB is simpler, tax-free, and better targeted to those who need it most. More support means more opportunities for middle-class Canadians to save, invest, and grow the Canadian economy." Unfortunately, many Canadian families aren't going to receive the support they need because the new CCB, unlike the Universal Child Care Benefit (UCCB), which provided stable support to all Canadian families, is based on your previous year's income.

The current Liberal government has failed to take into account those Canadians who have been laid off in the last six months or had their hours reduced won't qualify for the maximum benefit this year, regardless of the fact that their families are struggling to make ends meet. Canadians looking for work, families struggling to pay for childcare or extracurricular activities, and parents trying to save for their children's futures won't receive the support they need. They deserve better from their government.

In addition to the cancellation of the previous Conservative government's tax relief measures, the current Liberal government's planned tax hikes, including the expansion of the Canada Pension Plan (CPP), which will put hundreds of thousands of jobs at risk and do nothing to help the seniors who need it, are already going to reduce the take-home pay of middle-income Canadians. It is, therefore, difficult for many Canadian families to understand how the new CCB will put money back into their pockets as the current government claims it will do.

The Conservative Opposition believes in supporting all Canadian families and ensuring they're able to keep more of their hard-earned money to spend on their priorities. Canadians expect their government to work hard for them and we will continue to be a strong and effective voice for families in Parliament to hold the current Liberal government accountable.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Crewson pleased Federal Liberals have brought investment to Dufferin-Caledon awaited and hard-earned funding announcement was made by Canadian Minister of Innovation, Science and Economic Development Navdeep Singh Bains and Ontario Minister of Infrastructure Bob Chiarelli, who each brought $90 million to help the member municipalities of the Western Ontario Wardens' Caucus, the Region of Niagara, and the Town of Caledon fund the $281 million cost of the Southwestern Integrated Fibre Technology (SWIFT) proposal that will bring affordable, high-speed internet service to over 350 communities serving 3.5 million people.

This announcement is the culmination of many years of work by many good people such as the current Chair of the Western Ontario Wardens' Caucus Randy Hope, SWIFT Board Chair Gerry Marshall, and SWIFT Staff Lead and CAO of the County of Dufferin, Sonya Pritchard.

During the 2015 Federal Election campaign, as the Liberal candidate in Dufferin-Caledon, I heard from many people that the lack of access to affordable high-speed internet service was compromising their children's education and limiting their economic opportunities.

I raised these concerns in Ottawa with the members of the Liberal caucus and that the

> I am so pleased that the Trudeau Liberal Government, that I worked so hard to be a part of, has not forgotten the people of Dufferin-Caledon, despite the fact that we elected as our Member of Parliament, Conservative David Tilson.

> In April of 2016 Minister Bains announced $2 million in federal funding to Orangeville-based Quality Cheese Inc. to enable the expansion of its production and improve its competitiveness.

> These investments in Dufferin-Caledon by the Government of Canada may never be acknowledged by our M.P. David Tilson in his weekly column, Ottawa Journal, but they are being made and will improve the quality of our lives here in Dufferin-Caledon, just like the cheques that families received last week from the new Canada Child Benefit that will raise over 300,000 Canadian children out of poverty, or the middle class tax cuts in the 2016 budget.

> Everyone should be proud of what we have worked so hard together to achieve for Dufferin-Caledon and for Canada.

Police warn public about paving scam

Dufferin OPP are warning residents to be aware of a paving scam in Dufferin County that has come to the attention of the police.

A paving company identified from pamphlets as "T. Young" and or "Ontario Road Repair" has been connected to numerous complaints to police about paving scams and frauds.

They have been reported once again to be operating in the area. Police have found that in the past incidents this company has used a misleading contracts, unreliable business addresses and phone numbers. Any affiliations with local businesses do not exist. The work done is substandard or not completed properly. The contract is set up with:

- Hidden charges and fees that don't show up in the original quote
- Payment in full is demanded
- Victims sign a contract that says "any faults found at a later date are not the responsibility of the contractor"
- Because the culprits are providing false information upfront and are not from the area, victims are unable to take the suspects to small claims court for judgement

Police remind citizens that they should follow a few simple steps when getting home renovations

- Always read over thoroughly all written contracts before signing them. Get a family member to review them

POLICE INVESTIGATE SERIOUS COLLISION IN MONO

On Wednesday, July 27, at 9 a.m., Dufferin OPP were dispatched to a two-vehicle personal injury collision on Airport Road at Highway 89 in Town of Mono. Dufferin EMS and Rosemont Fire Department responded as well.

Preliminary investigation reveals an eastbound tractor trailer, hauling 40 head of cattle, t-boned a southbound F250 Ford crew-cab pickup.

The force of the impact drove the pickup truck through the intersection into a ditch, then into a traffic signal, knocking it over. The pickup truck driver had to be extricated from the pickup. Both drivers were transported to an area hospital with non-life threatening in-

The scene remained closed for several hours while cleanup was completed.

Dufferin OPP have charged the driver of the cattle truck with failing to stop at a red light under the Ontario Highway Traffic Act.

Crowd of 5,000 hear Shelburne Songwriter in Collingwood

BY MARNI WALSH

Congratulations go out to Shelburne's Sohayla Smith and The Smith Brothers who finished fourth in the Collingwood Live & Original Music Series.

Introduced as a sub-festival of the Colling-wood Elvis Festival, the competition gives singer/songwriters the chance to showcase their talents through live performances.

The group played in front of an estimated 5,000 people on July 22 in Collingwood.

"It was pretty cool," said Sohayla. "It was the biggest audience we've ever performed for."

She said they played their song Burn It To the Ground "and we had the entire street clapping along and cheering by the end."

It is the second year for the competition, which held its inaugural performance in the summer of 2015. The focus is "finding musical creativity and innovation at the grass-roots level."

Prize money for first place was $5,000. Finals were held at the historic Gayety Theatre on July 23 where Mike Charette of Sudbury took home the prize money.

"Although, we didn't place in the L & O songwriter showdown contest," said Sohayla, "it was a great experience."

The group was asked back to perform at the L & O Encore Concert to fill in for the third place winner, Bernadette Connors, "who can't make it on August 6, so we are thrilled to be going back for another performance opportunity in Collingwood."

Sohayla said the group was "fortunate to get a little footage broadcast on the Barrie CTV News at 6 on July 21," and received "the opportunity to record a song for a compilation CD."

Funds raised from the CD go towards a bursary for a student going into music as a career in school.

"Working with Josh Maitland from Red Room Recordings was a really enjoyable experience," said Sohayla, "and the group is excited to get the mp3 back so they can share it."

Pleased with the overall experience, Sohayla added, "We met so many talented songwriters and have become friends through this process; we played in front of thousands of people on the main stage during Collingwood's renowned Elvis Festival; duked it out in head to head competitions – songwriter against songwriter; and were judged on our overall song writing composition, lyrics, and performance."

The group, she says, is looking forward to receiving the constructive criticism of the judges so they can continue to better their overall performance and give it their best shot for the next competition they decide to enter.

"Overall we had a fantastic four days, and we are looking forward to seeing the L & O Songwriter Showdown team again in a couple weeks," she said.

Organizers of the event call it Canadian music scene's "next big thing." Details on the Songwriter Showdown can be seen on Facebook at Experience Collingwood.

Fair Ambassador eagerly awaits CNE Competition

BY MICHELLE JANZEN

While most people don't even get to wear one crown in their lifetime, Shelburne's Fall Fair Ambassador Jade Fleming is hoping to snag a second one August 21st.

The 19-year-old is off to the Canadian National Exhibition (CNE) to compete in the Ambassador of the Fairs contest against dozens of other young women and men from across Ontario.

"I'm really excited. I can't wait," an enthusiastic Fleming told the Shelburne Free Press. "It's such an honour to get a chance to compete."

Fleming was named the local ambassador at last year's Shelburne Fall Fair and will soon crown her successor. But, before she does, she'll be giving it her all during the three-day competition at the CNE.

She explained that she'll be interviewed by a panel of judges and then take part in seminars and tours, all of which lead up to the semi-finals for only a handful of the con-

"I really hope to make it that far," said Fleming.

If she does, she'll have to give a 90-second speech, during which she said she would discuss different aspects of the Shelburne Fair as well as her experience being chosen as Shelburne's Ambassador and how it has helped her to grow into the person she is be-

She'll be judged on everything from her knowledge of "The Ex" and agriculture, poise, personality and the overall impression

So, what has the local teen been up to over the past year as the Shelburne Fair Ambassador? Fleming reports she has been attending community events, meetings and even an ambassador conference at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

"[Being the ambassador] has allowed me to meet so many more people," she said. "It has also really helped my public speaking

The outgoing ambassador encouraged local youths to take a shot at the position.

"Instead of asking why [should you try], I say, 'Why not'?" she said. "It really helps you on so many different levels.'

For more than 40 years, young representatives from fairs across Ontario have competed to become the Ambassador of the Fairs. This year-long title takes the winner across Ontario as a representative of the CNE and all agricultural fairs.

Since its inception in 1971, more than 3,000 young people from 100 communities throughout the province, have taken part in this illustrious contest.

This year, the event will take place at the CNE from August 19 to 21, with the winner being crowned on August 21 in the Queen Elizabeth Theatre!

More Portables coming to Glenbrook Elementary School

BY MICHELLE JANZEN

The Upper Grand District School Board (UGDSB) has received approval of their application to place three more portable classrooms at Glenbrook Elementary School.

The Board's minor variance application, which would allow them to place three more portable classrooms while retaining the existing number of parking stalls on the property, was recently approved by Council.

Town Planner Steve Wever reported to Council that currently Glenbrook Elementary School has nineteen classrooms and two portables. His report showed that as student enrolment has increased due to Shelburne's rapid growth, the additional classrooms are needed at this time to accommodate the expansion.

Several local residences were on hand to ask Council and Jennifer Passy, Manager of Planning for the Upper Grand District School Board any questions. Local resident Terry Hunt, whose house backs onto the schoolyard, voiced his concerns.

"We were here a few years ago for this and now we are here again," said Mr. Hunt. "How many more years before we are back asking to add more portables? When I purchased my house I was told nothing would ever be built behind us, and now the school just keeps taking down trees and adding portables. "Why wasn't the school built big enough to accommodate the number of students that it would service in the first place?

Wever's report noted that the addition of the portables will not require any modifications to the existing building or landscaped areas on site.

Passy explained that growth in Shelburne was not expected so quickly. However, statistic have shown that, over time, schools where new subdivisions are built usually see an influx in the first few years and then it stabilizes to the number of students to which the school was originally built to hold.

If the growth continues, Passy said that the UGDSB could possibly look at changing school boundaries within Shelburne.

The only concern to the variance application came from the Centre Dufferin Recreation Complex (CDRC). Currently, Glenbrook Elementary School and the CDRC have access to a shared driveway which both parties have a common service agreement which was established with regard to maintenance responsibilities and

The CDRC has indicated concerns to Town staff regarding parking issues based on observations of how the shared driveway and parking areas are being used for the school and parking of vehicles in the areas that are not designed or permitted for parking.

Passy, Manager of Planning for the Upper

Grand District School Board assured council and CDRC chair Councillor Walter Bonotto that they will work with them to solve this problem before school commences in September.

Calling all Superheroes!

BY MICHELLE JANZEN

Join Bethel Bible Chapel for their Superhero Training on Saturday August 13 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon for boys ages four to ten.

This jam-packed two-hour camp for boys includes a t-shirt that participants can choose from four different superhero logos to have put on it. They will also receive a cape, and will be making their own slingshots! (Don't worry, parents - marshmallows will be given instead of rocks to shoot from these!)

The camp will showcase Don MacVicar, Canadian Powerlifting record holder for over 30 years. MacVicar has competed all over the world and holds the record for lifting over 1000 pounds.

After his demonstration, MacVicar will also relay to the participants the storey of David and Goliath, in which a young boy named David defeats a giant who was over nine feet tall. He fought Goliath when everybody else was too scared.

David had no armor, no experience, no equipment, he was not battle tested, nor was he trained, however he gathered five smooth stones from the river and pocketed four of

The fifth one went into the sling prepared for Goliath

Goliath mocked David and said that he was not afraid of a little boy. David let fly the stone in his sling. The stone hit the giant between the eyes and the stone sunk into his forehead. Goliath fell forward while both armies watched.

David then used the giant's own sword to finish the battle.

While we don't fight physical giants today, we do fight spiritual giants and emotional problems. The storey of David and Goliath teaches us that each small challenge you face and beat prepares you for future challenges.

Bethel Bible Chapel is located at 419 Main St. E. Shelburne.

Free concert following Festival Parade this Saturday

BY MARNI WALSH

A free concert to showcase beautiful Grace Tipling Hall will take place this Saturday, August 6, directly following the Festival Parade at approximately 3.30 p.m.

Located at the corner of Main and Victoria Streets in the Town Hall, Grace Tipling is a lovely concert hall, originally built in 1882, with seating for an audience of just under 200 patrons.

"As a complimentary concert, it is our intent to feature local talent and market the hall as a great place to showcase our talent," says Town of Shelburne CAO and Clerk John Telfer.

The concert, promoted as "Centre Stage at the Hall", is organized by a festival sub-committee as an extension of the Performing and Visual Arts Board of Management for the Town of Shelburne, consisting of the CAO John Telfer, Noni Thomas, Dale Lundy, Kelly McDowell, Andrew James, and Sohayla Smith.

Andrew James will be the emcee for the new event, and Centre Stage at the Hall is proud to present both local and out-of-town talents in its inaugural début.

Centre Stage at the Hall only features artists who have auditioned to the board subcommittee. Some of those, "Duets and bands such as Dickie and the Boys, Scarlett's Hand, and Riley Michaels band will showcase for the first time in Shelburne," say the organizers.

Other performers in the entertainment lineup include local talents of all ages: Acacia De Krijger, Natalie Savona, Brianna McGowan, Avalynn, Ronique Saunders, Pooja Vaidya, Dustin Bricker, Mikayla Evans, Gabrielle Oatman, Unique De Krijger, Mathew Guevarra, and Darcey Baker.

"The performing arts submissions range from pop, rock, and cover bands, to vocalists, singer-songwriters, dancers, and even an Elvis tribute artist," says Ms. Smith.

She says audiences are "in store for an eclectic entertaining couple hours."

Centre Stage at the Hall, "Is an exciting free performing arts showcase that allows us to further celebrate both local and out of town talents," says Sohayla, "and more so, to share our passion and our support of arts and culture together."

Junior Cubs advance to next round of playoffs win the series.

The Mansfield Junior Cubs have advance to the next round of the North Dufferin Baseball League playoffs after winning their opening series over the Midland Twins.

The Cubs won Game One of the series 10-6 on July 24, then played to a 4-4 tie on July 26. To advance, the Cubs needed to win Game Three or tie the game, which would give them a single point and total of the four needed to

It was a tense battle on the diamond in the Thursday, July 28, night game.

The Cubs were having success but not scoring.

Midland opened the scoring in the fifth inning after getting a man on base, then doing a sacrifice bunt to advance the runner to third.

A big hit to right field brought in the game's first run.

The Twins took a 3-0 lead after scoring a second run in the sixth inning and bringing in another run in the sixth when the play went to first and gave the man on third time to cross the plate.

It came down to the seventh inning and the last at-bat for the Cubs.

After getting two outs, both at first base,

Alex Attenborough started with a single, then advanced to third on two stolen bases to set up the Mansfield squad in scoring position.

Angelo Miankowski got the walk to put men on first and third, then followed up stealing second to place men on second and third.

The Cubs brought in two runs when Cole Newton hit to left field for a double to place the Cubs within reach of a win.

The Twins decided to intentionally walk the next player hoping to capitalize on an easy play on the next hit.

The strategy hit the dust when Jordan Metz got up to bat and hit to the centre field fence for a ground rule double the brought in the tie

The tie meant the Cubs got the point they needed to advance to the next round and the game was over.

"They've seen me a lot. I've thrown a lot against that team," said Cubs pitcher Jeff Christman. "They've seen all the pitchers I throw and they know what's coming so it makes it harder. It makes it so you have to labour through a lot more."

The fact that the entire game came to the final at-bat doesn't matter, Christman said.

"Wait 'til the last out - that's never the plan. It's the same game plan every inning. You're

Senior Cubs win final game of the season against Creemore Barons

BY BRIAN LOCKHART

The Mansfield Senior Cubs wrapped up the 2016 season with a 7-5 win over the Creemore Barons on the diamond in Mansfield on Sunday, July 24.

The Cubs won't make the playoff this year, but the win in their final game makes for a positive end to the season.

The Cubs opened the scoring in the first inning of Sunday's game.

It was tied at one at the end of the second period when the play was made at first with a runner on third that managed to cross the plate.

The Barons went ahead by one in the third when they got two men on base then loaded the diamond with a single. The next hit brought in the lead run.

Mansfield took the lead back in the bottom of the inning starting with a single from Bill Hawkins, who then advanced when the next play went to first and bought him enough time to make a sprint to third.

The Cubs had another run when Brad Caldwell went for the steal and forced the throw to second, allowing the third base runner to cross

Mansfield took a one run lead when Brad Pendleton singled to bring in another Cubs

From there, the Cubs kept up the momentum for the rest of the game and left he diamond with the 7-5 win.

The final game of the regular season had no effect on the playoffs as neither team could make the difference so late in the season.

The Barons were down three points from a playoff spot and even a win during this game wouldn't have made a difference.

Diabetes Day of Champions golf tournament helps send kids to camp

BY BRIAN LOCKHART

Spending a few hours on the links at the Shelburne Golf Club on Monday, July 25, provided between 30 and 40 children living with diabetes the opportunity to attend camp, thanks to funds raised during the Dufferin Diabetes Day of Champions golf tournament.

The third annual event, hosted by professional golfer David Markle, who himself was diagnosed with diabetes in 2011, has raised around $120,000 to date for the Canadian Diabetes Association.

There are Diabetes Camps across Canada with three located in Ontario near Huntsville, Kingston, and London.

"There are 12 camps across Canada and we are fortunate to have three in Ontario," explained

Nicole Holder, Community Engagement Coordinator with the Canadian Diabetes Association. "The camps are specifically designed for kids with diabetes and their families. This is for kids with Type 1 diabetes. There's round-the-clock care and they are medically supervised. There's a professional team - the big difference between a regular camp and our camp is there is a professional team of diabetes care providers at the camp including doctors, nurses, and dieticians.

"The counsellors are kids that used to go to camp; it's youth teaching youth. The majority of the counsellors are past campers who live with diabetes. They do the same fun things at camp but they also learn how to manage their diabe-

The tournament is the creation of Shelburne's Markle who has hosted the event for three years.

He realized that using his status as a professional athlete would enable him to encourage other athletes to participate and, in turn, make it a fun and exciting event that would draw more participants.

While he is the central figure in the tournament, he is quick to point out "It's not about me. It's about raising funds to send kids to camp."

Mr. Markle used his connections to encourage other high profile athletes to take part in the day's events.

"I was diagnosed with diabetes in 2011," Mr. Markle explained. "I'm fortunate to be a professional athlete and that gives you a platform to create change. I decided to see diabetes as an opportunity, and contacted the Canadian Diabetes Association and they connected me with Nicole. I've got a lot of buddies that play pro golf and

"Hockey players are very generous guys and so are golfers. We've also got a couple of lacrosse players out there. We've been fortunate that it's a community event - not only our own community but we've built a community of family and friends, local businesses and service groups. When you provide people with an opportunity to help others, it's amazing how they respond. This is an example of that. We've got a big team of volunteers, sponsors, and participants who make this event happen."

While the event itself provides a good mid-summer day of fun for participants, the end result can be measured in more than just dollars raised when the kids who attend camp are gifted a lifetime of good memories.

The Heritage Music Festival is fast approaching. The Heritage Music festival Church Service, or as many know it, the Fiddleville Church Service, is alive and well. Yes, the service is still on, and is as good as ever, it just has a new name. As I help prepare the Church service the Shelburne Ministerial will host Sunday August 7th at 10 am in the Shelburne Arena, I cannot help but remember Rev. Bruce Beslev and the vision he had for this service some 41 years ago. I have done my best to keep his memory and his vision of this service alive, and it has been a great joy to lead and organize the service over the past 11 years. Joy and Laughter, good Gospel music and lots of fiddle specials have made it a very uplifting and encouraging service for the whole family. Please come out and be blessed this year; we have the Torchmen, a Gospel Quartet who have sung together for over 45 years in places like the Grand Old Opry in Kentucky and the Air Canada Centre here in Ontario,

BY FRANCES FYFE FRIENDS OF THE EARTH CANADA

Friends of the Earth Canada is calling on residents of Shelburne to join the Great Canadian Bumble Bee Count and help scientists learn more about these important pollinators.

All it takes is a simple snap of a picture of bumble bees you see in your garden, park or campsite and upload to Bumblebeewatch.org.

The Canadian member of Friends of the Earth International, one of the world's largest grassroots environmental organizations, is partnering with Bumble Bee Watch to deliver the first ever Great Canadian Bumble Bee Count.

Bumble Bee Watch, created by scientists from the Xerces Society, York University and Wildlife Preservation Canada, is an ambitious citizen-science project that asks people to take pictures of bumble bees when they see them, note their location and upload them online, where they will be verified by a team of researchers.

For our Great Canadian Bumble Bee Count, we want to help Bumble Bee Watch's researchers by seeing how many bumble bees we can find across Canada from now until August 15! Bumble bees are effective pollinators for many of the crops we eat and for many of the wildflowers in our fields and forests, but several of their species are dramatically declining.

Though there are over 40 confirmed species of bumble bees in Canada, they have little proper monitoring.

Anyone can help keep track of and protect these bees by participating in the Great Canadian Bumble Bee Count and joining Bumble Bee Watch today.

All you need is a camera and some curiosity to find the bees in your town!

Christian Perspectives: Prayer is an ongoing conversation

BY JANET SINCLAIR, BSC., MTS, M.DIV., REGISTERED MARRIAGE & FAMILY THERAPIST MINISTER OF KNOX PRES-BYTERIAN CHURCH GRAND VALLEY

There is evidence that, from earliest times, humanity has always had an innate awareness of the Divine, the Sacred, what we call "God."

People have always approached sacred mystery with words, chants, and songs; with movement, dance, silence, and various meditation practices. People in all times and places have invented rituals of connection with the Divine.

We call some of our rituals "prayers."

Sunday morning church rituals are built around a wave of prayer flows its way through our wor-

When Jesus' friends asked him to teach them a prayer, he taught them to praise God, then to ask for what they needed: food, forgiveness, and protection. Then he assured them that God would

He said, "Seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you." (Luke 11:1-13)

There are no limits to what we can say to God. Nothing is out of bounds. It is good for us to express gratitude, so we give thanks for our lives and communities and world. Then we talk to God about our concerns and the situations we know need fixing.

These are the forms we use when we pray and Jesus told us to that God would always answer.

How do we understand what prayer is and

An understanding of prayer that many of us begin with looks something like this: we pray to God about something; God hears these prayers, pulls some strings, and rearranges circumstances to bring about a positive outcome.

However, this leads one person to complain that God may have pulled strings on behalf of someone else's wife who had cancer, but didn't pull strings on behalf of his own wife who died. What kind of God is that?

The whole idea of God responding to some people's prayers and not to others' is disturbing. It doesn't make sense to most people today. We cannot imagine a God who creates everyone as a beloved child but then picks sides, chooses one but rejects another.

A more satisfying understanding may be that God is the ultimate reality behind everything. All life emerges from God and lives in God. God is like the ocean or atmosphere in which all life comes into being and lives.

We live in and breathe God. When we pray to God for someone, although our words suggest that we are asking God to fix things for the other person, what we are really doing is directing loving intention, energy, and care to the other person.

We quite often live under the illusion that as separate, distinct individuals, we cannot bring about change in other people. Only God can do that, we think. Another way of understanding it is that we live in an invisible ocean of Spirit — one that connects everyone and everything.

A prayer for someone - a loving thought and feeling of care, or empathy for someone travels through the invisible spirit reality of God to surround the other person. All of that loving energy is effective. It does make a positive change. Praying for other people is a powerful way to help and

So, God is the ground of our being in which we live and move and pray. But God is also conscious and compassionate and responsive. We are in God but God is also more than we, with our limited imaginations, can ever comprehend.

Generally, the more we pray, the closer we feel to God - the more aware we are of God present with us. Remember Tevye, the patriarch in Fiddler on the Roof? He was on intimate terms with his God. The conversation with God about all of it -- every bit of his life -- was constant. Prayer is a way of life: an ongoing conversation with God.

It is a way of life that can have a positive effect on our entire planet. It can also produce some surprising results. While in silent meditation, a moment of perfect stillness and being utterly present might for just an instant leave you feeling as if you are swimming in God.

Prayer can even shock you with visions: strange but also comforting experiences of God.

A friend told me years ago, when his mother was dying and he struggled with the sadness of it, that when he had prayed that morning, he felt as though God had picked him up and cradled him in warm, comforting arms.

We give thanks for God who is loving energy dwelling in us, surging around us, carrying healing energy among us, and also, holding us as a loving parent.

From the Book of Hockley

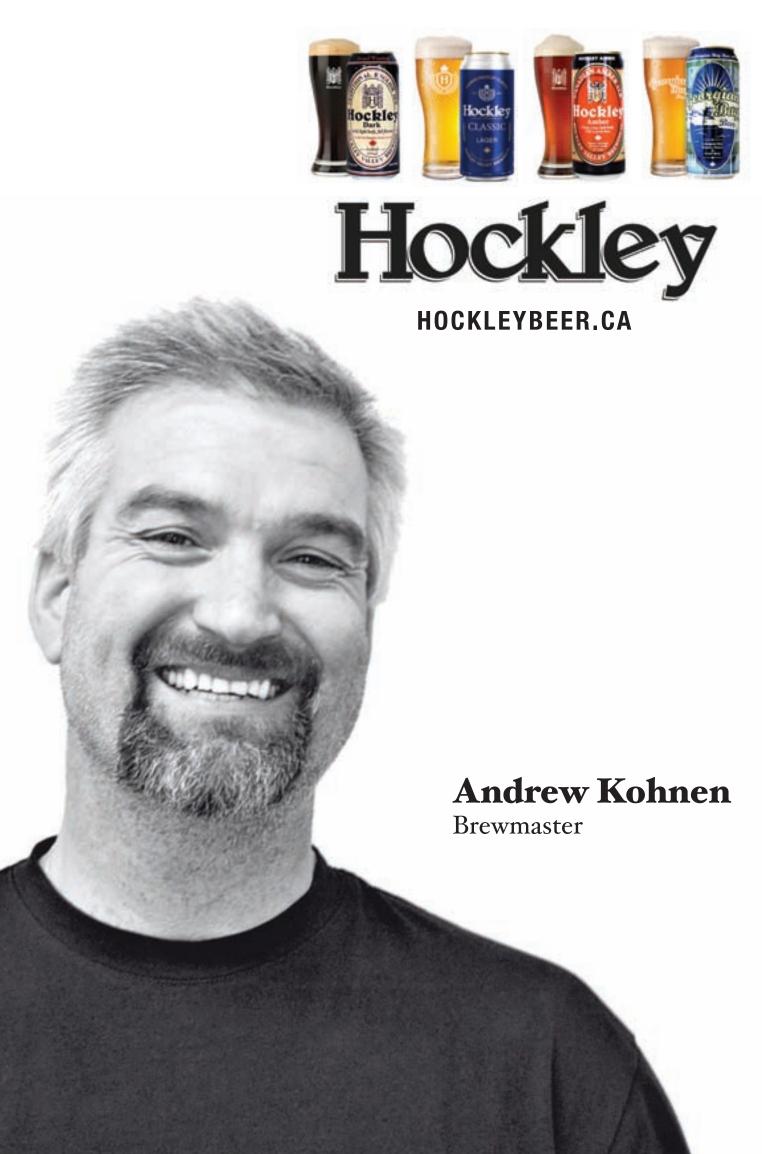

The one time playing booky paid off!

Andrew threw away a successful career in Logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

Moment of clarity: I was sitting in a movie theatre catching a matinee – the first and only time I ever played hooky from work. I was in Operations Management at the time and could not, for the life of me, see myself in the same environment for the next 30 years I submitted my resignation the next day and applied to the Brew School in England. I've been following the path ever since.

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany to pick up near where his mother's family brewery had been, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.
