Ottawa Journal: emergency relief supplies for Iraq

BY DAVID TILSON, M.P.

The situation in Iraq is tragic. 1.3 million people have been displaced by ongoing violence, an estimated 850,000 in the last two months alone, and many more are threatened. Canada is very concerned and is responding to the humanitarian crisis by sending emergency relief supplies. Providing food, water, and other essential supplies can mean the difference between life and death for people in desperate need.

Our Government strongly condemns the actions of ISIL in Northern Iraq, including the killing of innocent civilians and the targeted persecution of religious minorities. It is those actions that are responsible for the humanitarian crisis the region is now facing.

Canadian officials are monitoring the situation and assessing how to respond to the humanitarian challenges. We have already allocated over $21 million to support both Syrian refugees and Iraqis affected by the ongoing violence.

Canada has established a stockpile of relief supplies in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, which enables us to respond more quickly and efficiently to events in Africa and Asia. The dispatch of relief supplies to Iraq is the first time this new stockpile has been used. The stockpile,

Meet the candidate:

Dan Sample is running for council in the upcoming municipal election. On Friday, September 12th, Sample hosted a "Get to Know" barbecue at Shelburne Town Pharmacy, located in the Giant Tiger Plaza in Shelburne.

Sample, a soccer coach and soccer board member, baseball coach, President of the Curling Club, and active Kinsmen is no stranger to the Shelburne, but community members who do not know Sample yet, had the chance to speak with him, one-on, one, over a free hot dog.

"I've worked with Honda for 27 years, I'm project lead for North America for Process Engineering, (creative solutions)," said Sample.

Self described as a strong community member trying to organize more events in Shelburne, Sample admits, though he has moved around frequently as a youngster, coming back to Shelburne and living here for the last three years, his focus is on providing his own children with roots in the community of Shelburne.

Sample's slogan for his campaign is simple and direct, "We're in this Together".

Owner of Shelburne Town Pharmacy, Sanjay Lekhi, known for supporting the Shelburne community any way he can, was only too pleased to offer his location for Sample to host a barbecue.

Local volunteers on this occasion were Marg Robertson, Sandra Chmarney, Sherri Smith, Kierstyn Bissel, Karen McKinnon, which also includes tents, blankets, and kitchen and hygiene kits, is managed by the Canadian Red Cross.

Canada continues to work with organizations such as the International Committee of the Red Cross, Development and Peace, Save the Children Canada, and Mercy Corps. The need for assistance is clear and Canada is responding swiftly and generously.

In addition to providing supplies to those displaced by the violence, we are also providing medical supplies to health facilities and helping with emergency repairs to water and sanitation facilities.

We hope that the tragic situation in Iraq will one day soon be replaced by lasting peace and security. Until then, Canada will work with our international partners and aid organizations to help save lives in the region.

Bennington steps up to run for Mayor

BY MARNI WALSH

Ken Bennington, the current Deputy Mayor of Shelburne has stepped up to run for the position of Mayor in the upcoming Municipal Election October 27th. Originally running as the incumbent Deputy Mayor, a position he has held since 2006, Bennington withdrew that submission on Wednesday, September 10th, when Ed Crewson, the current Mayor of Shelburne, withdrew his candidacy in a personal decision that recognized "he had done all he had set out to do in 2003 and that it was time to pass the torch." Bennington will compete for the position of Mayor with Shelburne resident Frank Hunt Jr.

ness Administration at Georgian College in Barrie. Currently, he works for a large automotive manufacturing plant, where he and his team "specialize in cost containment, manufacturing efficiency, improvements and cost reduction." Ken Bennington says he "entered the world of politics, at the age of 29, as a Hydro Commissioner for Shelburne Hydro back in 1998." He was first elected to Town Council as a Councillor in 2000, and after 2 terms of office, he was elected as Deputy Mayor and is currently finishing his second term in that position. For the past eight years, Mr. Bennington has represented the Town of Shelburne at Dufferin County Council and says he is "surprised how fast that 16 years just whizzed by!" Below are Mr. Bennington's responses to questions from the Free Press.

What specific skills do you bring to the position of Mayor?

Ken Bennington, born and raised in Shelburne, is currently restoring a heritage house right across from his childhood home on Main Street. He is the proud father of "a wonderful, 19 year old son, also born and raised in Shelburne, who is pursuing his own goals in the Quebec

Major Junior Hockey League." After graduating from Centre Dufferin District High School, where he says he has "fond memories and lasting friendships," Mr. Bennington studied Busi-

Mr. Bennington's response:

"Experience – I've been involved in town politics for the past 16 years.

I'm also a lifetime resident with knowledge of the Town and area for the past 45 years.

Passion – Shelburne is my home and I'm very proud of that. Any decisions I make have the best intentions for the Town and our people.

Accessible – I have always made myself available for my constituents and I will continue to do so. With today's electronic devices, this process should get even easier...phone, text, email, Facebook, Twitter...etc.

Patience – Sometimes the wheels of progress turn slow. Seeds we plant today, may take some time to bear fruit. Council needs to be mindful of the future, to ensure the long term goals of the Town are met.

Fiscal Responsibility – Tax dollars started out as your dollars, and I'm very mindful of that. I don't waste my own money so I wouldn't waste yours. As I mentioned earlier, cost efficiency is how I make my living. Town programs will be under review starting on day 1 of office." and Atom Local League. You can find me at the rink as a referee with Ontario Minor Hockey. I've been refereeing hockey games since 1997, working games from 5–6 year olds, right up to the Junior 'A' and Senior 'A' level. Last October, I retired from the Shelburne Fire Department after 17 years of service."

What do you see as the three biggest challenges the Town will face in the next term? How will you deal with these challenges?

"In no specific order....you say 3, I feel better with 5...

Sewage capacity – As the new subdivisions are built out, the Town's sewage capacity is starting to diminish. The affluent receiving stream isn't getting any bigger, so Council will need to address the amount of 'clean' water infiltrating into our sewage system. Some homes built in the 1970's had the weeping tiles connected to the Town's sewage system, and although that water is effectively clean, it still needs to be treated as sewage waste.

Local Economy/ Downtown – It seems like every month, another store closes downtown. I plan to meet with local business owners to gather their thoughts for methods of improvement.

Staff – A number of key Town employees may retire during the next term of office, taking with them years and years of experience and history. Replacing them with the right people will be essential for the success of the Town.

Budget – The Town has benefited from increased assessment from all the new homes built in the past number of years. With that, we've been able to invest in parks and rec., and several other Town projects. As that development slows down, due to the lack of sewage capacity, our ability to fund these projects without tax increases will also diminish. Careful planning and wise spending is required.

Ed Crewson – Whether you loved him as Mayor or not, that man was an incredible ambassador for the Town of Shelburne. He will not be easily replaced. As Mayor, he worked tirelessly to promote Shelburne as the 'best small town in Ontario' and it will take all of Council to fill that void, myself included."

If you had a wish list for the Town – what would be at the top of it?

"I'm purposely being non-specific here, but it's got to be big enough to employ 200 people, and pay corporate taxes to ease the burden from the homeowners. Not specifically a factory, but maybe a casino, shopping mall or hotel."

Residents will be able to see candidates for the Town of Shelburne in action at the all-candidate debates for the 2014 Municipal elections

The results of this poll are in no way considered to be valid or infallible.

A Veteran Died Today

Dear editor:

On September 1, 2014, my uncle Jim Mc-Cullough died at the age of 91. He was incredible, not only because he was my uncle but also because he was a veteran. He fought in World War II with the Queen's Own Rifles. He, as well as the other men and women, fought so that we could all enjoy the freedoms that were being taken away from so many. A poem was read at his funeral called "A Veteran Died Today". The original from Larry Vaincourt is called "A Soldier Died Today". It is a poem that should be read by all. It can be seen at www.vaincourt. homestead.com. It reads, in part:

"He was just a common soldier and his ranks are growing thin.

But his presence should remind us we may need his likes again.

For when countries are in conflict, then we find the soldier's part

Is to clean up all the troubles that the politicians start.

If we cannot do him honor while he's here to hear the praise

Then at least let's give him homage at the ending of his days.

Perhaps just a simple headline in a paper that would say,

Our country is in mourning, for a veteran died today."

I just felt that you should know that a veteran died September 1. Let us remember them all.

Domestic dispute

On Wednesday, September 10th, Shelburne Police investigated allegations of current and historical domestic abuse. As a result of the investigation a Shelburne man in his 40s was arrested the same day. The man was charged with three counts of assault and two counts of choking. He was held for a bail hearing which took place on September 11th. The accused male was released with numerous conditions imposed by the courts.

On Saturday September 13th the Shelburne Police investigated allegations that the same man was breaching some of the conditions he was placed on just two days prior. As a result the male was arrested again and charged with two counts of breach of recognizance.

The name of the accused is being withheld for the benefit and safety of the victim.

Collision with Hydro pole

At 6:29 p.m. on September 12th, Dufferin OPP were dispatched to report of single motor collision involving a vehicle into Hydro pole on 2nd Line of Amaranth between 25th and the 30th Sideroad.

OPP closed the roadway for Technical Traffic Investigators to examine the scene for several hours.

The male driver was transported to Headwaters Health Centre with life threatening injuries. He later succumbed to his injuries and died. Deceased is Jermaine Taylor, 21 years of age from Orangeville. He was the lone occupant of the 2008 Toyota Yaris involved in this collision. An investigation is continuing.

Man charged

On Monday, August 11, Grey County OPP initiated a fraud investigation after the complainant withdrawn from his elderly mother's bank account in Dundalk.

Investigation revealed that the accused had been using the victim's debit card at the CIBC ATM to withdraw money from her account since December 2011. The accused and the victim, who is 94 years of age, are known to each other.

A 69 year old, Township of Southgate, man has been charged with fraud and is scheduled to appear in court in Owen Sound on Thursday, September 25.

Be aware of scams

The OPP wish to remind the public to be aware of various scams such as the Emergency scam, also known as the Grandparent scam, Microsoft scam, Charity scam, Inheritance scam, Lottery or Sweepstake scam, and Service scam, to name a few.

On Wednesday, July 30, an elderly Grey Highlands woman received a phone call from an unknown person claiming to be a representative from "Sears". The victim was told that her account was overdue and that she had to pay it immediately. The victim sent a cheque for $125.29 to Total Credit Recovery Ltd., in North York, Ontario.

The victim then called Sears directly at which time she was advised that the phone call had been a scam. She immediately cancelled the cheque and reported the incident to police.

Consider a career in policing

Policing, a province-wide, collaborative initiative under the auspices of the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police, which aims to attract young people to a career in policing.

"The OPP wants to attract the best candidates to become police officers. Discover Policing is the police sector's response to encouraging people from all walks of life – especially young people - to consider a law enforcement career," said Inspector Dave Quigley, OPP Career Development Bureau.

Discover Policing will feature a number of social media portals where individuals interesting in a law enforcement career can engage with police personnel about what police organizations are looking for in potential candidates, educational requirements, potential opportunities, etc. Individuals who want to consider a law enforcement career can connect with police personnel through three social media platforms:

Facebook: The Discover Policing Facebook page will be the primary source of information for the initiative. This page will include infor-

The OPP is supporting the launch of Discover mation about Discover Policing, provide helpful resources and links for potential candidates, links to all police agencies, and a calendar of recruitment events for police services across Ontario. Twitter: This Twitter account, @DiscoverPolicin, will connect users to police personnel who can assist users with their queries.

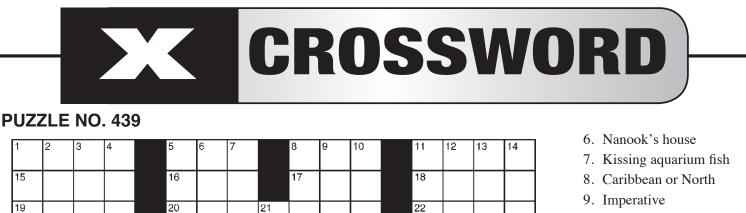

> LinkedIn: Users of this professional networking platform will be able to connect with police personnel and learn more about policing in Ontario.

> The OPP is also pleased to announce that it will participate in the Discover Policing Exposition that will be held on October 15, 2014 at the Toronto Police College. This one-day event, which is free of charge for members of the public, will provide an opportunity for Ontario police services to showcase the profession of policing to potential candidates and for attendees to engage directly with police personnel. It will take place from noon to 8 p.m. and feature exhibitor booths for police agencies, presentations by police personnel about career opportunities, and special demonstrations.

Twenty-four participants took part in the Terry Fox Run held on Sunday, September 14th in Shelburne and with generous donations which came pouring in.

Shelburne's Terry Fox volunteer organizer, Joan Wallace can proudly announce taking in approximately over $2000 towards putting an end to cancer.

Though young Canadian, Terry Fox lost his battle to Cancer forcing him to abandon his goal of running across Canada, Terry Fox fundraising organizations have definitely carried on Fox's dream as they continue to raise funds towards terminating this often consuming disease.

Joan Wallace, Terry Fox Run Volunteer Organizer commented,

"I would like to thank all who made donations, the 'Terry Foxers' who came out to participate, and the Terry Fox volunteers who assist to make it all happen. Thank-you to Isabel and Jeff Holmes, who mark out the routes, student volunteers, Bailey Vander Veen and Erika Alguire, who helped with registration, poster hanging and sign placing around town, RBC'er and Mom, Tina Vander Veen for assisting our students, Shelburne and District Fire Department for the use of their property and firefighters, Ian Wallace and Dave Hardick for the use of the tent and setting up," adding, "We have a terrific town in which we live, and it's the people who live here, make it what it is. A caring and vibrant place we call home. Thank you to everyone, you have made a difference in many lives. I thank you, and the Terry Fox Foundation, thanks everyone for your continued support."

A cancer survivor herself, a very grateful Wallace seems to have a surplus of energy and an even greater amount of determination and dedication in the fight to end cancer.

Congratulations on the successly planning and execution of another Terry Fox Run on behalf of the Shelburne Free Press.

More library news:

This week I had the privilege of Chairing the Ontario Public Library Service Awards Jury. This involved reading and judging submissions from libraries all over Ontario for two prestigious awards - The Minister's Award for Innovation and the Angus Mowat Award for Excellence. The shortlist will be announced during Public Library week and the winner at the OLA Super conference in February. It was exciting to see the many programs that public libraries are developing and offering to their patrons... libraries still strong and still growing as the recreational, informational and technological hubs in their communities. While there was quite a bit of time involved in reading and ranking these submissions it was also an honour for us to represent all small libraries in Ontario.

Seniors Focus: Many of you may not know of our service in providing Daisy format (Digital Talking books) for those of our patrons who are physically, visually or learning disabled. We have had great success in providing this format and ordering these `books` in for our patrons who need this service -- circulating between 60 and 100 titles per month. We know our readers' likes, favourite authors and genres and we constantly bring in new books to meet those needs. Because of our success with this program, I have been asked to sit on the National Operations committee of CELA (Centre for Equitable Library Access) which is integrated in supplying resources both electronic, print (Braille) with the CNIB. While at one time these resources were just available for visually impaired patrons, we are now able to supply them to patrons who are physically impaired which covers a number of illnesses such as Arthritis, Parkinson's etc., or short-term hospital or recovery time periods if the patron cannot hold a print title. Due to the generosity of a number of patrons who have enjoyed these services and also with some library funding, we are able to loan out several Daisy Readers for short periods. Please check with me, Rose @519-925-2168 or come to the library and speak with me if you think this would be of benefit for you or someone you know.

A Highlight this week was the presentation to the library of an incredibly beautiful and detailed sculpture of Gandalf. This work of art was created by Ken and Gywnn McGhee and joins others they have made for the Children's area of our library. Everyone, especially the children point out the sculptures and as readers, they know them as some of their favourite characters from books. We are so fortunate in our community to have the generous support of our patrons in so many ways.

I'll be doing when I'm thirty-five. They don't phrase it quite like that, but upon hearing that I am going into grade twelve, every well-meaning adult within a thirty kilometer radius flocks to my side to ask me "what are your plans?"

It's not that I don't like talking about the future, because I am most definitely excited to be heading off to university next year; it's just a bit intimidating to be expected to know exactly what you plan to do for the rest of your life. "I feel like it puts a lot of pressure on us because we're constantly being reminded of how the decision we are making now will set the course for the rest of our lives," says Sabrina Lin, a grade twelve student at Aurora High School.

My dad is a high school teacher as well as a guidance counselor, and he always tells his students that trying to plan your career after high school is like deciding now that in ten years you'll be married with two kids and a white picket fence. And yet, that's essentially what everyone is asking me. While the most pressing question is where I'll be going to University, this inevitably leads to the discussion of what I want to do post-graduation. I'm not even allowed to vote yet, but I'm expected to have the rest of my life planned out. Luckily for me, I've been well prepared to answer these questions since the age of fifteen, when I went on my first university tour. At the time, I felt like I didn't belong in the group of grade twelve students being shown the campus, because it seemed so far off for me.

Now that I'm applying to University in the coming months, I'm grateful to have had such early exposure to the post-secondary world. I have a pretty good idea of what I want to do and where I want to go, and feel reasonably confident about what I'll be doing after high school. Even so, I sometimes wish it were still the early eighties when, as my father would say, all you needed was a sharp pencil and a cheque book to get into University. These days, it just seems like a race we're all running, not only to get into a good school, but to ensure our future after post-secondary.

Nothing is guaranteed for us anymore, even if we get the best education possible. I'm fairly sure that I'll be saying goodbye to most of my friends when I leave high school, so I know how important it is for me to enjoy this last year. But it's hard to live in the moment when all you can think about is the future.

Morden of Sharon Cakes has had her cake making business for thirty years. It is safe to say she's had her cake and eaten it too.

Her business is run professionally out of her home, but is located in a totally separate area from where she lives. Her business is baking cakes of all kinds, wedding cakes and celebration cakes. She also holds cake decorating classes and corporate team building sessions.

All of the cakes she makes are made to order and are baked fresh to be picked up. There are no package mixed cakes with Sharon Cakes. There is also no store front bakery window, however, she keeps two ovens and one convection oven busy.

Morden always has a co-op student helping her with her business each school semester. She welcomes the help to her business and the students learn the skill of baking and cake decorating. And in addition to that, the students can learn how a small business is run.

With a high percentage of unemployed youth, it is valuable to learn about how to start up your own business. High School Co-op terms are to work in a trade or in an area that they may consider future employment and of course they bring help to the employer.

Morden's cake business has proven to be successful and she has competed in a seven hour competition called the Cake Walk where she baked a cake that was three feet high. She has also competed on SLICE TV and has won the best cake for taste.

The recipes that she uses to bake her cakes are her own. "I used a recipe that is over one hundred years old" she said when referring to her best cake for taste win. The recipe has been in the family for a long time and is still going strong successfully. Her theory is to keep it simple. Morden feels that when you combine too many ingredients it becomes too complicated and has a lesser chance at success.

To say the least she has perfected her art and the students that take the opportunity to work with her will certainly enjoy learning from a skilled artist.

HEAVY LIFTING IN SHELBURNE - Powerlifter Tony Fenech lifts 391 lbs during the Highlands Power Lifting event sanctioned by Powerlifting Ontario at the Athlete Institute at Acts Fitness. Thirty-six competitors from several different clubs took part in the September 13th event.

BY BRIAN LOCKHART

Thirty-six athletes from around the region arrived at the Athlete Institute to compete in a powerlifting event hosted by the Highlands Power Lifting Club and sanctioned by the Ontario Powerlifting Association on Saturday, September13.

The Highlands' club members are from Dufferin County as well as Peel and York Regions.

Powerlifting combines three events: the deadlift, the squat, and the bench press.

It is a sport that tests total body strength and athletes achieve a three-lift total to complete the competition.

Highlands club member Tony Fenech lifted an incredible 177.5 kg, or 391 lbs, for his best squat in Saturday's competition.

"I was trying to play with strongman stuff and lift heavy things," Fenech said of his start in the sport. "I didn't really have the proper techniques. When I met my coach (Nelson Sleno) then it started picking up."

Fenech used to be an amateur boxer at Big Tyme Fitness in Orangeville, but became a trainer and fitness coach when he found being in the ring wasn't his thing.

"I realized I didn't have all the right features for a boxer - short arms, big British nose, so I became the strength and conditioning coach for all the pros at the club. I'm a staple at the boxing club. If you get through me you're on your way to being really good."

Powerlifting: the sport of overall strength

Going into powerlifting, he said the attraction is "the rush" adding, "I've got 400 lbs on my back and I'm not really sure where this is going to go. You don't know if you're going to make it - and then you do"

After squating 391 lbs, Fenech missing the next lift.

"I missed the 402, but I was already psyched up for that one. It didn't matter to me at that point."

The thing about powerlifting is you have to be smart the way you train and how you compete to avoid injury and keep going in the sport.

"The challenges of running a fitness facility and doing powerlifting - they may sound like their in the same neighbourhood, but they're not. In powerlifting, you do it and relax."

In many ways, powerlifting can be a very dangerous sport considering the amount of dead weight that is involved. One slip-up could spell disaster so each event has qualified spotters to step in if a lifter runs into trouble.

One thing about powerlifting that separates it from other sports, is that even though they are in a competition, the encouragement shouted out from other competitors in the crowd is something rarely heard at other sports events. They all want competitors to do well and be safe.

There won't be any Junior A hockey action in Shelburne this season after the new start-up club-the HTI Stars-backed out in an eleventh hour cancellation of the team's involvement in the Greater Metro Hockey League's 2014/15 season.

GMHL president Bob Russell confirmed the cancellation on Thursday (Sept. 11th) after a meeting with club owner Jenya Feldman on Tuesday.

The club was previously known as the Shelburne Redwings before being bought out by Feldman in July and making the name change to reflect Feldman's hockey school in Innisfil.

"He didn't acquire the team until July," Russell said. "They started late and didn't have minute changes in the schedule to accommoenough players. He only had 12 players and two goalies.

TI Stars won't ice a Jr. 'A' team in Shelburne

The cancellation came as a surprise to League officials as the team had paid all their fees and the schedule was set for the season.

Despite the late start, Russell said they were sure Feldman could fill the roster in time.

"He's one of the best recruiters I've seen," Russell said, adding "It caught us off guard. We really didn't expect this. At the last minute he didn't get the four or five players he needed."

Several players who had been selected for the Stars roster backed out included some that decided to stay in Europe.

As a result the League had to do some last Dufferin Recreation Complex.

date the gaps left open by the Stars departure.

The cancellation of the Stars' 2014/15 season doesn't mean they are done as club. Feldman asked for a 'delay' until next season when he is hoping to re-group and get the team back in the GMHL's line-up.

Since he already had an agreement with the Town of Shelburne regarding ice time, the plan is now to use that ice time for girls hockey base out of the HTI hockey school.

The GMHL season is now underway with 23 teams in the line-up, but hockey fans in Shelburne will have to wait until next year to see if Junior A hockey will be returning to the Centre

Our hearts were eager to join together to praise God for bringing us through another week of ups and downs. Pastor Don shared announcements and prayer needs, then he prayed "Dear Heavenly Father we thank You today for your almighty power on which we can depend on to lead us away from fear, deliver us from anxiety and help us through every struggle, we cast our cares upon you in Jesus name, Amen."

"The Lord is my light and my salvation— so why should I be afraid? The Lord is my fortress, protecting me from danger, so why should I tremble?" Psalms 27:1. Fiddles and Fashion at DCMA

BY MARNI WALSH

This weekend the Dufferin County Museum (DCMA) will celebrate history with both fiddles and fashion presenting the DCMA Barn Dance on Saturday, September 20th and the ArtWear Network Luncheon and Fashion Show on Sunday, September 21st. The fashion fundraiser is in support of DAREarts, a charitable organization that uses "educational experiences in the arts to empower children and youth facing life challenges."

The Museum has had several Barn Dances over the past 25 years and renewed the tradition last year with great success. Though barn dancing may come to mind as a 20th century activity, its history goes back centuries to the courtly dances held by the nobility in the lavish ballrooms of Europe. In England and Scotland, peasants used the floor space in barns to imitate the dancing of their wealthy landowners and the oft' times rowdy tradition crossed the ocean with adventurous immigrants to the new world.

There will be a square dance caller at the

Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Awards

The strength of our community lies in solid citizens.

If you know a young person, aged 6 to 17, who is involved in worthwhilek community service; a special person who is contributing while living with a limitation; a youth who has performed an act of heroism; or a 'good kid' who shows a commitment to making life better for others, doing more than is normally expected of someone their age – help us recognize their contribution – nominate them today!

Barn Dance to take dancers through the moves, and Curator Sarah Robinson claims that "even if you have never danced before by the end of the evening you'll never want to stop!" Members of the Dufferin County community, from politicians to media, are providing "sumptuous pies" to auction off at the dance, including Laura Ryan, Karren Wallace, Steve Brown, David Nairn from Theatre Orangeville, and Curator Sarah Robinson's mother. What could beat square dancing, fiddling, callin' and homemade pie?

"This year, famed fiddler Shane Cook will lead the music for the DCMA Barn Dance. Shane retired from competitive fiddling in 2006 as one of Canada's most highly awarded fiddlers. He is a three-time Canadian Open National Fiddle Champion, a three-time Canadian Grand Masters Fiddle Champion, a Grand North American Fiddle Champion, and is the only Canadian to have ever won the US Grand National Fiddle Championship at just 17 years of age. Jake Charron will accompany Shane and call the square dances. Jake has performed with such artists as Natalie McMaster and Leahy. Shane and Jake have just released a new CD entitled "Head to Head." ArtWear Network is made up of artists who design and create art-to-wear, including weavers, dyers, designers, knitters, and tailors. Their work is characterized by "high standards of craftsmanship, attention to detail and creativity," and their network is a means of coming together to "inspire, challenge and support each other." Textile artist and ArtWear Network member Pat Burns-Wendland explains, "Each time we do a fashion show, we choose a charity to receive either part of the ticket sales and or 20 per cent of our sales of wearable art. Art-Wear is proud to be working with DAREarts, because one of their programs is fashion and youth."

The DCMA presents the ArtWear Network Luncheon and Fashion Show Sunday, September 21st at 12:30 p.m.; admission for the luncheon and show, catered by The Globe Restaurant, is $50 (with a $25 tax receipt issued for this portion donated to DAREarts.) The DCMA Barn Dance will be held Saturday, September 20th from 7 - 10 p.m. at Dufferin County Museum & Archives 936029 Airport Road. Tickets for the dance are $10.
