The end of an era: Pete's Donuts set to close

BY ALEX SHER

To borrow an expression from William Shakespeare, enhanced by Willie Wonka, "Adieu, Adieu! Parting is such sweet sorrow."

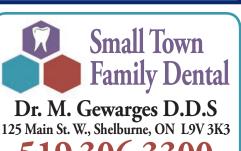

Bidding farewell is such an emotional event for the owner of Pete's Donuts in Primrose, Luba Little as the announcement came that the coffee shop will be officially closing as of Sunday, August 31st. The closing comes as the owner of the building leased by Little is sold and the community of Primrose will begin the process of grieving the loss of what can only be described as a home away from home and so much more than a coffee shop on a corner in a little town to so many. Was it the welcoming smiles of staff, the smell of baking, freshly brewed coffee, the friendly faces of customers, friendships forged while life happened at this busy corner in Primrose, or perhaps a combination of it all that made this business thrive? In any case, Pete's Donuts in Primrose will be sorely missed.

"Pete's Donuts has been around for more than 25 years," commented Little. I've owned the business for only five years and it was such a beautiful experience. It's the people, I will miss all the beautiful people."

Some students can accurately describe having worked part time for Little during their entire high school experience, including Little's tell you how we've been embraced by the community. It's been so wonderful. I can't thank everyone enough. It was fun the whole time and a really great experience and we really will miss all of our customers, and I mean all of them."

Out of Little's 10 part-time employees, five are off to college or university this fall and when they return for Christmas vacation, the reality will set in for the young adults as Little puts it, "It really is an end to an era."

As fate would have it, the business owner oldest son, Ryan.

"At a farewell party, the kids made a beautiful keepsake, a disc of memories. In fact, the man who helped make the disc, had been coming here for 30 years. Our customers are more like family," commented Little.

While change is always difficult, Little's message to the community is positive, "I can't with the last name of Little made the biggest impact on so many of the lives Pete's Donuts welcomed each time their doors opened for so many years. As sad as the community is to see Pete's Donuts close, the community wishes Little and staff the very best for a continued bright future, as bright as the time spent in Pete's Donuts!

Council renumeration increase approved

BY MARNI WALSH

Ward & Uptigrove Consulting and Human Resources (W&U) has recommended council consider an increase to overall council remuneration to meet the market average based on a comparative review of relative market data. The firm's recommendation would see councillor's salaries raised from the current $8,000 annually to just under $12,500; deputy mayor raised from $9,000 per year to $14,711; and the mayor's remuneration increased to $20,874 from its current $12,000 per year. W&U reminded council that equitable compensation for the responsibilities, duties, and services councillors perform and provide as representatives of the town, is not only essential, but a best practice as it attracts and retains interest in council positions.

Speaking to the consulting firm via conference call at the August 25th council meeting, Councillors asked for "further background information on how the figures were determined." The firm explained that the seven municipalities chosen by council, based on comparable size and services offered to Shelburne, were used as comparators. Salaries were compared by position for all municipalities from their 2012 Statements of Council Remuneration and Expenses, and an average arrived at as a "fair representation" of an appropriate recommendation of remuneration for Shelburne Councillors. The comparators included the Towns of Mono, Perth, Espanola, Minden Hills, Stirling-Rawdon, Aylmer, and Hanover.

The firm suggested council may want to phase in the adjustment over the next four year term "considering the significant gap between current council remuneration and market averages." They also recommended council consider indexing up by the annual Cost of Living Allowances (COLA) provided to the staff of Shelburne "to ensure remuneration does not lag behind market." W&U recommended a market study in remuneration be conducted every four years to ensure council compensation was equitable. The firm did not recommend any changes to council benefits as those offered "meet or exceed the majority of comparators in this study." By-law #38-2014 providing payment of the recommended remuneration, as of December 2014, passed first reading at Council Monday evening.

Concerning Dufferin Wind Power's ongoing construction of transmission lines beneath the Dufferin County rail bed that runs through the west end of Shelburne, Jennifer Willoughby Deputy Clerk of Shelburne says the company is currently about eight weeks behind schedule. "After reviewing engineering submissions from S. Burnett & Associates, it appears the original construction time-line through Shelburne was four weeks with construction commencing June 9th. They are currently on their 12th week of work within Shelburne limits."

Council was asked whether there was concern about transmission pole holes for above ground lines which will be installed just outside of the town limits. The question referenced the Ministry of Environment's concerns in Melancthon for the possibility of surface water traveling into fractured bedrock through caissons and/or bore holes for the utility poles. Councillor Tom Egan noted that "frac-outs" had been a major concern for council during DWPI's construction through Shelburne and that there had been extensive documentation done by the town engineer, Stephen Burnett. Mayor Crewson, who had a pecuniary interest was not in the Council Chambers, but Deputy Mayor Ken Bennington commented that "at this point council was just dealing with DWPI issues in the town boundaries," but that it was certainly worth discussing.

Not so scary scarecrows

BY ALEX SHER

Last year, Shelburne and surrounding area were introduced to Lynn Partridge, a Melancthon resident with a flair for creativity. Retired in the country was a dream accomplished by she and her husband Bill, but as with most artists, for this stained glass artisan and artist, she found she still had energy after her gardening chores were completed. What every garden in the country needs is a Scarecrow. What every artist's garden in the country needs is Kermit the Frog Scarecrow, Miss Piggy Scarecrow, Charlie Chaplin, and of course what would garden life be with out the old fella's from the Muppet Show, Statler and Waldorf Scarecrows?

But wait, there's more. When a person can't actually be in your garden it is always an absolute must that life size Scarecrow versions of yourself be created. Partridge created Scarecrows in the likeness of she and her husband. Alarming perhaps, if on a Sunday drive, one might notice some people just standing still off in the distance. One could never be prepared for the sight close up which is absolutely delightful!

Last year, Partridge fooled her dogs. As soon as the scarecrows were placed the dogs were on high alert barking at the people in the field. This year, dogs, birds, and people are fooled and amazed. The caliber of Partridge's skill is worth seeing and definitely worth sharing!

To imagine being this feisty when over seventy years old, talented and full of energy, is a tribute to all seniors who are young at heart. Partridges' secret to her youthful disposition is simple, "You have to be happy!" As for onlookers - we're happy she is happy as we get to share in her wonderful creations.

For a woman outstanding in her field, even as a Scarecrow, this is especially true. The only thing to do now is begin the long wait until next year to see what Partridge's zest, zeal, tenacity, creativity and absolute talent invents for all to marvel at next year.

Big news for Shelburne Giant Tiger

Andrew Lewis, owner of Shelburne Giant Tiger located in the Giant Tiger Plaza invests in the Town of Shelburne and the community proudly announcing renovation expansion plans are well underway.

Manager of Public Relations and Community Activation for Giant Tiger Stores Limited, Alison Scarlett has great news for the community of Shelburne answering how Shelburne was chosen for the renovation of Shelburne's Giant Tiger that is presently underway.

"Our loyal Giant Tiger customers voted for our brand and we listened. We have outgrown the current footprint of the store and therefore it has become necessary to renovate our location. We are Canada's Save On Everything Store and this new footprint will really show that off," commented Scarlett.

And how pleased is Giant Tiger about the renovation that is also an expansion increasing retail space from 7,610 square ft to 11,350 square ft?

"We are trilled!" responded Scarlett.

Giant Tiger Store owner, Andrew Lewis is especially excited commenting, "This new store format is going to be great! Customers will exer to navigate aisles, and clearly defined departments. Cosmetically our New Store Experience format is all about bringing the unique Giant Tiger brand to life for all our customers."

While the company hopes the completion of renovations will coincide with the scheduled Grand Re-Opening of November 15th, the store will remain open to serve their custom-

Dufferin Wind Power transmission lines to carry power from turbines in Melancthon will run underground through Shelburne from "the 4th Line of Melancthon on the north west to approximately 30 feet outside of the town boundaries in the south," says council. A letter directed to the Township of Melancthon states that Dufferin Wind Power has been approached by the MOE regarding Melancthon utility poles and asked to come up with "a methodology and implementation plan to prevent the transmission of surface water down to and/or into the limestone bedrock formation in those potentially vulnerable locations."

On the issue of municipal elections, Mayor Crewson spoke in some detail about the possible repercussions of campaign material in town sponsored events like the Fiddle Parade. The town solicitor has advised that the guide for municipal elections states that ineligible contributors to campaigns include events supported by the municipality such as the Fiddle Parade, and that if a complaint goes to the Compliance Audit Committee it can be submitted to the courts and result in heavy fines and penalties including the candidate involved being deemed ineligible to run in subsequent elections. The next scheduled council meeting is September 8th at 7 p.m.

PHOTOS COURTESY OF DCMA Shell casing inscribed by a German Prisoner of War, 1918. One of many pieces of "trench art" on display at DCMA opening September 1st at 1 p.m.

BY MARNI WALSH

Dufferin County Museum and Archives (DCMA) is commemorating the 100th Anniversary of the start of World War One with "a collection of WWI artifacts including uniforms, mementos and tokens of luck – "symbols of a young, yet strong, country at war." Included in the collection is a rare presentation of Canadian "trench art" on display in the Silo gallery, opening September 1st from 1-3pm and remaining on exhibit until November 14th.

Over the ages, military men passed the untold hours of desolation, boredom and dread busying themselves with various tasks, including in some cases, the creation of unique and intricate works of art. European wars from medieval to Napoleonic and beyond, saw soldiers and prisoners of war create crafts of both purpose and beauty from bone, straw and wood. During the American Civil War personal military accessories like canteens and powder horns were engraved with sentimental and patriotic symbols. Sailors, with access to scraps of sail, leaned towards needle work.

British infirmaries may have inadvertently picked up on the tradition when they taught the art of embroidery to service men in hope of healing the wounds of both body and soul in WWI. And in the misery of the trenches and camps, young boys too far from home, set their minds and hands to creating beauty out of the horrors of that war, shaping and carving the scraps of shrapnel and bullet shells they scavenged in the off hours. With this art exhibit, the new curator at DCMA, Sarah Robinson says, "we wanted to acknowledge that amongst the chaos of conflict, there were those that still managed to find and create beauty."

DCMA: 'Trench Art' mementos of conflict

These works of art, created from 1914 and onward became known as "trench art," and although smaller pieces were often created in the trenches themselves, many were done behind the lines. Shell casings large and small were transformed using metalworking techniques such as embossing or engraving; regimental crests and other symbols were often applied to the surface as well as hand paintings.

Sarah Robinson tells us that the pieces that were created in the trenches "tend to be roughly shaped with hand-engraved messages." Pieces were also created when soldiers returned home. "Soldiers would mail the shell casings (often German) home and wait until they had the proper tools to mould them into a work of art," says Robinson. Trench art was also sold as souvenirs to the soldiers themselves, as a source of income for war torn communities.

Most pieces were transformed into something functional, for example a candelabra, an ashtray or a picture frame. Using government property for personal use, which would include materials like shell casings, was illegal, and consequently, many of these works of art remain unsigned and the artists unknown.

One known artisan is Corporal Frank Cameron of Barrie, who sent home, one piece at a time, an entire tea set for his mother that he had crafted out of large shell cases; it is currently on display at the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa.

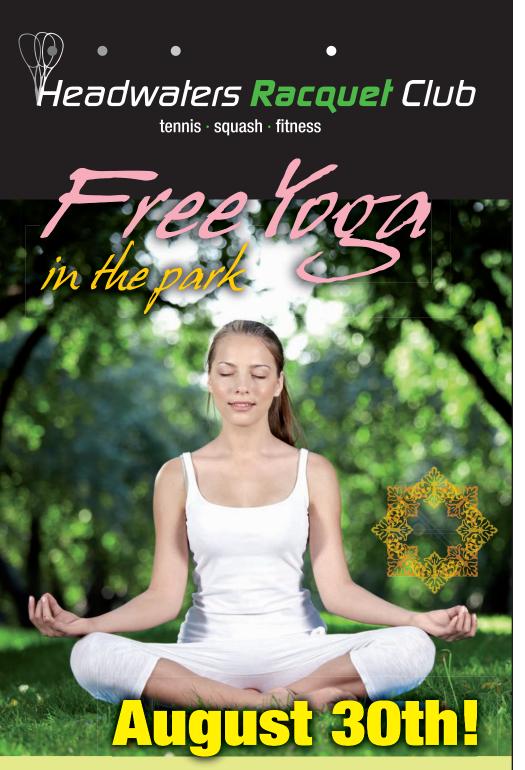

Curator, Sarah Robinson comments that although these pieces of metal are works of art, "first and foremost they hold emotional value, as mementos of the conflicts that affected so many Canadian families." She says that, "after announcing the trench art exhibit in January, it evolved into a community project."

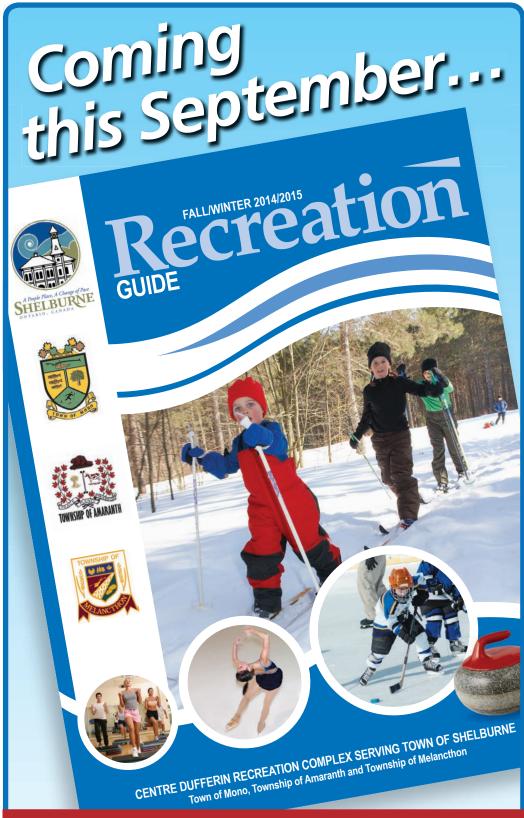

Many of the pieces were loaned for the exhibit by members of the community. "Therefore, this is a rare collection," she says, "together in one case we have pieces from both WWI and WWII, made from materials originating from both the Allies and the opposing sides."

This could not be any truer when referring to the struggle of survival that hundreds of stray dogs living in remote Northern Ontario communities face, year after year. PCT squared Without Pete's as a meeting point, who will solve the world's problems?

Dear editor:

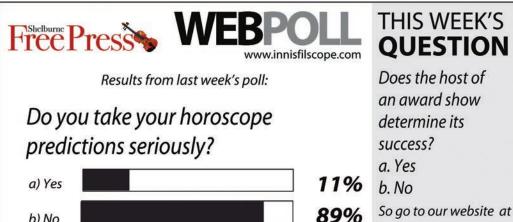

I'm not sure if you are aware that the thriving metropolis of Primrose is in mourning over a shocking development. I have been informed that the Primrose Pete's Coffee Shop will close it's doors forever on August 31st. The historic building will be demolished and replaced by a gas station. That such a magnificent structure should meet such an ignoble end is truly sad.

And the closure will have global implications. For close to 20 years the Primrose Pete's Coffee Club and Think Tank (PCT squared) has met daily to discuss and solve both local and world problems. Recently we have given up our efforts to resolve local issues as a lost cause. But we are still willing to tackle the big ticket world issues. If PCT squared is forced to disband, who will solve the world's problems? World affairs will descend in to more chaos than already exists. If we had more time we would appeal to the United Nations - the world needs Primrose Pete's more than it needs another gas station.

It is difficult to understand how such a resolute group as the PCT squared could be ambushed and relegated to the sidelines. I am convinced that sinister forces have conspired against us. I suspect a coalition of Hamas, ISIS, North Korea, the mafia, the P.Q., the Bloc, the Democrats, the NDP and the Liberals. They waited until late summer when many of our members are on holiday or busy with farm harvest. But fear not. We are at our weakest but we will rise again, even stronger from the experience. The world rely on us and we will not let them down. call has gone out far and wide to recruit new members. An exhaustive search is underway to find a new headquarters. The citizens of the free

Drivers failing to stop for school buses

The OPP is gearing up for this year's back-to- in-front of and behind the bus. Motorists must school season by encouraging everyone to be vigilant and patient when you encounter school buses.

The Independent School Bus Operators Association (ISBOA) conducted a province-wide study with their school bus companies between May 5, 2014 and May 9, 2014. During this period, bus drivers reported incidents where vehicles failed to stop for the school bus when lights were flashing.

Results show that approximately 151 such incidents occurred each day during the 5-day study. The majority of these incidents (75 per cent) happened while the vehicle was approaching the bus from the front. These numbers concern the OPP because bus drivers are not the only people who are responsible for the lives of our children.

"As drivers, we know that at certain times of the day we can expect to encounter school buses during our travels. Drivers need to be vigilant and pay attention to the flashing red lights and other safety equipment used on buses. Our children's safety depends on it," said West Region OPP Traffic Inspector Ian Chappell.

The Highway Traffic Act of Ontario indicates that when a school bus is stopped on the roadway with its red lights activated and "Stop" sign out, drivers must come to a complete stop not pass the stopped bus until the stop arm is retracted and the red lights are turned off. The owner of a vehicle can be charged if their vehicle fails to stop for a school bus even if they were not the driver.

Back-to-school is always a busy time for everyone. The OPP and ISBOA are working together to educate the public and to raise awareness about the possible serious consequences of ignoring school bus flashing lights.

"Family-owned school bus companies across the province are pleased to be working with their local law enforcement agencies to raise awareness about the dangers of passing a stopped school bus," said Steve Hull, President of ISBOA. "Our common goal is to make backto-school – and the rest of the school year- safe for all children who ride the bus."

For more information on the study please visit the ISBOA website at: I Stop You Stop Campaign

E-bike driver charged

On Saturday, August 23, at 4:33 p.m., Reginald Teeter, 53, of Orangeville, was issued a Provincial Offence Notice for failing to wear a proper helmet on a motor assisted bicycle under the Highway Traffic Act.

Back to school road safety tips

The youth in our community are returning to school next week. This means school buses sharing our roads during heavy traffic hours, more children walking or cycling along roads and crossing roads, and school zones packed with parents doing pick-ups and drop offs.

The safety of these children is everyone's responsibility! According to a study by Safe Kids Canada, more children acquire pedestrian-related injuries in the months of September and October than any other time of year.

Here are some back-to-school safety tips: • Talk with your children: Talk about the rules of the road, make sure your child knows the safest route to their school and teach them to obey crossing guards.

• Put away the phone: This is for both drivers and pedestrians. Driving distracted through texting or talking on a hand held device has been proven to very dangerous. But walking distracted, especially for children, takes the focus away from potential hazards and dangers.

• Leave early: Always leave plenty of time for you and your family to get to school. Running late can cause aggressive behaviors.

• Scan the road: Scan ahead, scan the sidewalks, look through windows of parked cars, and look for feet under parked cars.

• Obey School Buses: Motorists travelling in both directions must stop for a school bus

• Be Patient: Drivers need to wait for children to complete their crossing before proceeding. Children can be unpredictable and change their minds.

• Slow Down: Especially in school zones slow down and pay full attention to safe driving • Drop children off in a safe area: If you are driving children to school, drop them off in a safe area away from traffic.

The Shelburne Police Service wishes all our youth a safe and happy return to school next week!

Long weekend preparations underway

Police officers within the OPP Central Region have been working hard this summer to continue with a summer long seasonal education program which is focused on water safety. The "OPP Challenge" is focused on boat owners and boaters to wear a personal floatation device (PFD) at all times while out on the water.

"Water safety is a shared responsibility and any water related death that involves drowning is preventable especially when life jackets or PFD's are used. Having a PFD available on your boat is not simply enough - you need to be wearing it at all times" said Chief Superintendent John Tod, Regional Commander of the OPP Central Region.

With the last official long weekend of the summer quickly approaching, the OPP wants everyone to keep their heads above the water and wearing a PFD will allow you to float until help arrives in the event of an unexpected water related incident. In one such occurrence where a PFD was worn this summer, an operator of personal watercraft was rendered unconscious after a collision with another vessel. Responding officers determined that the outcome could have been fatal if a PFD was not utilized.

Chief Superintendent John Tod says, "our message to boaters in Central Region is simple, please wear your PFD and by doing so, you will be contributing and responsibly doing your part in making our water ways safer for all those who use them".

• On August 24, at 12:38 p.m. an officer observed a 2013 Mazda sedan travelling eastbound on King's Highway 89 at Mono-Amaranth Town line near Shelburne at 142 km/hr in a 80 km/hr zone. As a result of the traffic stop, 22 year old male of Orangeville, was charged with Race a Motor Vehicle. The vehicle was impounded for seven days as a result of the stunt driving charge.

• On August 25, at 12:38 p.m. an officer from the Dufferin Detachment of the OPP was conducting speed enforcement in the Township of Amaranth. The Barber Shop: where trend meets tradition

Adding charm to Shelburne's Main Street, Lynn Goutouski has opened her very own Barber Shop. This proud and skilled third generation barber owned her own shop previously 10 years ago on Owen Sound Street, and she is now happy to be returning to the thriving small town of Shelburne. In keeping with tradition Lynn's daughter Zaira will be taking up the family profession in the fall.

"My family began in the Barber profession in 1901," said Lynn. "We specialize in cutting men and boys hair. Haircuts are fifteen dollars for men - a bargain at a snip! Twelve dollars for seniors and ten dollars for children," she added.

Getting your toddler's hair cut can be a fun experience with Lynn's unique car shaped barber stool - easy for parents, and a must have for anyone working with children.

The Barber Shop is located on Main Street, Shelburne next to Main Street Café and just down from our Shelburne Free Press office. For more information on Lynn's services, please call 519 306-1010.

Vets Peewee at provincial finals

BY BRIAN LOCKHART

Just getting there is a huge accomplishment.

The Shelburne Vets Peewee team represented their town in stellar fashion at the Final Six Provincial A Lacrosse finals held at the Toronto Rock Athletic Centre in Oakville the weekend of August 16, 17. The Peewees qualified for the tournament after a season that saw them battle through League play and tournaments against much larger centres that ranked them among the top 16 teams in Ontario.

"In the qualifier, teams are put into two pools of eight and over two weekends you play a round robin - you play everybody. We played seven games and the top three teams in each pool then move on to the final six at the Toronto Rock Centre," said coach Brent Millsap.

The Final Six qualifier took place in Whitby over two weekends with the Vets making the cut to move onto the provincial championship.

The Vets were up against the five top Peewee teams in the province from Orangeville, Burlington, Oakville, Peterborough, and Mimico.

In the final tournament the team lost their opening 7-3 to Burlington, them came up with a 6-4 win in game two.

Three more losses - all close games – to Orangeville, Peterborough, and Oakville, stopped them from winning the tournament.

"It was a tough weekend but our kids played great," Millsap said.

The core group of kids on the Vets team have been playing together since they first picked up their lacrosse sticks at age four.

Representing Shelburne at a tournament of this level is a huge success for this squad who have worked hard all year just to qualify as one of the best peewee teams in the province.

SERVING DUFFERIN & SURROUNDING AREA

Crossroads Community Church

Sunday August 24th, 2014

The Lord is gracious and merciful, what a glorious Sunday morning we have been given! It is always a blessing to gather and worship God together. The praise songs were inspired by Psalms 25 and Pastor Don shared announcements, he then prayed "Dear Heavenly Father, we are grateful that you lead us and help us through choices we make, we humbly praise you and ask for your anointing to follow you and love one another, in Jesus name, Amen."

Each waking day we face countless choices; what to wear, eat, where to go, walk or drive to work; these have some level of impact on our lives yet there are some choices that impact all the more as to which career to practice, where to invest money or who to marry. Then there are behaviour choices we make that can determine the course of our day and can change someone's life too as to either be encouraging versus critical, happy instead of angry, loving instead of hateful. However there is one crucial choice in everyone's life; what do we believe and who do we follow?

The way we take determines our fate so we ought to keep it straight, so what is the right way? Here's some insight, "Enter through the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it. But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life and only a few find it. Matthew 7:13, 14. In this day and age it seems much easier to go with the flow, to be carried away into all sorts of ideals and conflicts that end up in misery so how do we find the narrow way and where is the gate that leads to it? There is only one Gate and one way; faith in Jesus Christ, He died for our freedom from sin and our forgiveness unto righteousness, meaning being right with God. Jesus declares this," I am the gate; whoever enters through me will be saved. "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me," John 10:9, 14:6. Entering the gate is not obtained by human birth, we don't inherit it from our parents beliefs and practices and we don't get it from warming up a pew in church; It is a personal choice that requires effort, determination, faith and a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

The way that is wide has many gates, from substance abuse to greed, sensual pleasures to apathy and hatred just to name a few and they all lead down the path of heartache and destruction. As human beings we can be our own worst enemy, and our wisdom is foolishness in comparison to God's, (Proverbs 12:5, 15, 14:12).

There is only One gate that leads to the path of Life and we can find it by surrendering to Jesus, once on it we need to keep on the straight and narrow even when life causes us to doubt and fear, even when we don't understand why and following is difficult, we need to keep on keepin' on. The disciples faced life's challenges as we do and while many fell away a few chose to trust and follow Jesus because they believed he was the Only way, (John 6:66-69). Overtime when we faithfully follow Him, Jesus himself will reveal the things we need to change so we keep on the straight and narrow.

Many may seem to have it all together and seem happy by worldly standards of wealth and status and even those who claim to love god and do all kinds of works, but if it isn't Jesus they are following towards God the Father they are not on the right path, He is the only way to the Father and He fulfills our every need. When we come to Jesus we commit to following Him and choose to develop a deep relationship with Him. The Holy Spirit helps us carry on while temptation to follow the wide path takes our peace and joy away, it is a thief that leads to death, (2 Timothy 3:12, 1 Corinthians 2:9, John 10:10, Proverbs 16:25).

Beloved the invitation to come through the gate that leads to life is for all but only those who choose Jesus will enter; the world at large may think that all ways lead to God still Only Jesus remains the way, the truth and the Life, He is the only way to the Father. Jesus loves us so much and he understands our human frailty, he knows life will be tough, and he knows our feeble minds and our hearts may falter, yet he wants a relationship with us, he wants us to live like we say we believe and for our lives to reflect not only our professed faith but our relationship with Him, in the end when we face God face to face that is the only thing that will matter. This week dear friends let us reflect on which path we find ourselves and let us ask God if we are on the right one, if we aren't may He lead us to find His Son, Asherey Shalom!

Settle or Excel? We reap what we sow in life

I came across a story recently which got me to thinking. Then today my wife's business received an email from an upset mother who received a math book in which the answer key is now in the back of the book. She wrote, "I wish I had known that before ordering. I've got one kid that is lazy and looks up answers instead of doing the work."

First the story, then the lesson.

In 1991 Anders Ericsson, Florida State University psychologist, conducted the most extensive investigation ever undertaken up to that time into the source of outstanding musician performances.

The subjects of the study were violinists (from the renowned Music Academy of West Berlin in Germany). The violinists were divided into three groups.

The first group consisted of the outstanding students who were expected to become internationally renowned in their field.

The second group was made up of musical students who were extremely good, but did not quite have enough skill to take them to the very top.

In the third group were the least proficient of the musical students. They were probably destined to become music teachers, but not star performers in their own right.

The ability levels of the three groups were based on individual assessments by musical professors and corroborated by success in open competitions. After lengthy interviews, Ericsson found that the biographical histories of the three groups were very similar and showed no remarkable differences. On average the students began practising the violin around eight years of age. The average age when they first decided to become musicians was just before they turned fifteen. Most students had four teachers throughout their training. But, there was one difference between the groups that was both dramatic and unexpected. This was the cellence usually did so from an inner motivation, desire and love for what they were doing. External force rarely produces long term persistence and excellence.

What is the lesson in this for us? What does this study say about the future of the child who is "lazy" and looks up the answers in the back of the math book? What does it say about the parent who views this behaviour as acceptable and blames the problem on the layout of the book?

If true success is connected to the willingness of an individual to commit and apply themselves honestly and contentiously to a task, why is there not more emphasis today placed on the value and benefits of such living? Why do so many people choose the easy way out and expect to have life handed to them on a silver platter without their own creative initiative, contribution and commitment to life?

Proverbs 21:5 tells us, "The plans of the diligent lead to profit as surely as haste leads to poverty." Perhaps it would be a good thing if we understood we are responsible and accountable for the choices, attitudes and actions we choose in our life AND just maybe we might be benefited if we followed the advice of the Apostle Paul in 1 Corinthians 10:31, "So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God." From a Biblical perspective we will ultimately be accountable to Him.

number of hours the students devoted to serious practice.

By the age of twenty, the best "super-talented" violinists had practised an average of ten thousand hours. This was about two thousand hours more than the good violinists and about six thousand hours more than the not-so-good violinists.

Ericsson found there were no exceptions to the pattern of hours devoted to serious practice and the talent level of the violinists within the categories. Those who were willing to put forth the effort to put in the practice needed for ex-

Farm-to-School pilot program

With support from the Government of Ontario, the Headwaters Food and Farming Alliance is embarking on two pilot programs that will bring more local food and farming education to students and families in Dufferin County, Caledon and Erin.

Classroom workshops will be offered initially to a limited number of schools, and delivered by farmers from the same Headwaters communities. The curriculum-linked modules will be available for kindergarten through grade 6 and feature activities that explore various aspects of the local food system.

To extend the learning to home, the group is also organizing a local food club, where individuals or families can purchase memberships and receive monthly packages containing food samples, information about seasonal food and producers in the Headwaters region, as well as recipes and nutritional information. Packages will be distributed through participating schools.

"The Farm to School Workshops and Food Club are excellent opportunities for students to learn about food from the ground up and how easy it is to support local farmers. What a fantastic way to teach kids lifelong skills in a fun and practical way," said Anita Macfarlane from The Children's Foundation of Guelph and Wellington, a co-applicant for the grant along with Headwaters Communities in Action.

Karen Campbell from Everdale Farm, a program partner, says: "One of the most dramatic and positive things you can do for the environment is to connect children to food and farming. Through an examination of the local food system students uncover not only the environmental side effects of their food choices, but also the personal health effects and the social effects that are distributed on a global scale. From this vantage point students can begin to conceptualize the food economy, start to develop a sense of positive food ethic, and find ways that they can contribute to a more sustainable solution."

Parents, teachers and farmers are invited to visit HFFA at the fall fairs, including the Orangeville Fall Fair August 29–31, 2014 at the Agricultural Fairgrounds, to learn more about these pilot programs as well as the organization's other works.

For more information, to get involved, to make a donation or help fundraise for these projects, contact Program Coordinator Jennifer Payne at 519 925-1851 or e-mail food@ headwaterscommunities.org

When nature meets technology farming becomes 'Food for Thought'

PHOTO SUBMITTED Will vertical farming skyscrapers be the next advancement in farming technology?

BY ALEX SHER

Technological evolution is progressing at a staggering rate. It's become very difficult for new ideas to outlast forty seconds without being replaced by the newest thing. In order to relate to our changing world, we must remember a time when the world was believed to be flat and later, the entire concept of flying to the moon was, 'crazy talk!'

As windmill turbines become a familiar sight in Shelburne and the surrounding area's landscape, again as a society we are faced with having to accept new technology forcing itself into our lives due to progress and need and without much time to adjust our mentality and opinions, we might as well brace for what could be the next great change, Vertical Farming.

The phrase Vertical Farming was coined in 1915 by Gilbert Bailey who wrote about farming underground. His book is available online at the Biodiversity Heritage Library where it can be viewed for free.http://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/bibliography/21982#/summary

Today however, Vertical Farming has nothing in common with anything underground as Singapore based company, Sky Greens is making leaps, bounds and history with their ability to provide fresh produce to Singapore at a fourth the cost of traditional farming. Solar power, very little water usage, and a controlled environment ensuring quality of the produce grown makes Sky Greens use of Vertical Farming a framework that will certainly be followed as less land is available to accommodate world's population and ever growing need for sustainable food.

Founder of Sky Greens, Jack Ng began his efforts to build a prototype of a high-rise vertical farming facility in 2009. By 2013, Ng has won a number of Urban Food Sustainability awards, has expanded the facility and variety of fruit and vegetables grown, and best news of all perhaps is the claim that his leafy greens taste better than imported produce. The cost of buying Sky Greens produce can range somewhere in the 40% higher bracket for consumers who actually don't mind paying as the quality of the food is so superior to imported goods.

Other factors affecting this direction of farming are of course, cost and though Singapore is a world away from Shelburne, Ontario, weather can be crippling to a local farmer. Growing all year would certainly have it's economic advantages. Imagine have fresh locally grown produce all winter? We all are well aware, winter's in Shelburne can be unforgiving, stranding people for days with road closures. Singapore may have solved it's sustainable food situation out of necessity, but Farmer's in Ontario may succumb to Vertical Farming for different reasons.

And just like those people who witnessed the first plane fly by overhead, perhaps Skyscrapers of Vertical Farms will replace Wind Mill turbines in the landscape of the future. In any case, the situation is very worth thinking about, and some might even refer to it as food for thought.

To get a better understanding go to http:// youtu.be/2nFQOkzEjxQ and see the YouTube Video explaining Sky Greens vertical farming procedures. Go to www.skygreens.appsfly.com to see Sky Greens Website to learn more. Also look into Dickson Despommier, a Microbiologist, Ecologist and Professor of Public Health Sciences at Columbia University, for enlightening explanations, understanding the foreseeable future and the challenges involved with feeding the world and the best way to do it.

Meditation classes

The weekly drop-in Thursday meditation classes at the Orangeville Mill Street Library starting on September 18, with a six class series titled "Know your mind, know yourself".

This fall, immerse yourself in the inner journey of your own mind. Each Thursday class, Rose Hirano will teach on one particular aspect of our mind and help us to understand its different parts and how it functions. We will thereby be able to identify and abandon the types of minds that lead to unhappiness and cultivate the ones that lead to happiness. You can drop-in at anytime as each class is self contained, or follow the series to deepen your understanding and practice. These classes are based on the most recent book of Geshe Kelsang Gyatso: How to Understand the Mind.

Benefits you will receive in your daily life: 1. React to challenging daily situations in a more skillful and relaxed way

2. Break powerful bad habits of mind that lead to your daily unhappiness

3. Improve your concentration in all your daily activities

4. Gain confidence in yourself and your actions

Topics for the six classes are:

- Sept 18 The key for a successful life
- Sept 25 What you think is what you are
- Oct 2 Get the most out of your life
- Oct 9 Manage your feelings
 Oct 16 You have a choice

• Oct 23 – Be inspired by positive examples

The weekly classes run from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and are taught by Kadampa Buddhist teacher, Rose Hirano, from the non-profit Kadampa Meditation Centre Canada in Toronto.

These classes offer simple, practical methods to improve the quality of our life and develop inner peace. Each class consists of two guided meditations and a teaching to help us solve our daily problems, let go of negative minds and find happiness from within our own mind.

Even though classes are presented in the form of series, each class is self-contained and therefore can be attended individually or as a series. Fee of $10 per session or $40 for any five sessions. For more information, visit kadampa.ca or call 1.866.523.2672.
