CANADA DAY: Families and friends gathered at Fiddle Park in Shelburne on Canada Day (July 1) evening, for the Town's Canada Day Drive-In Movie Night, an event held for the last two years, due to COVID-19 restrictions. A quiet moment of reflection and acknowledgement was held prior to the movies airing, to show support for the Indigenous community and honour the over 1,100 Indigenous children found in mass unmarked graves in the last six weeks. To view more photos, turn to Page 3.

Canada Day marked with reflection on residential schools

Written By Paula Brown
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

The Town of Shelburne marked Canada Day (July 1) differently this year, using scaled back celebrations to acknowledge and reflect on the long history of residential schools.

The call to pause Canada Day celebrations came in the wake of the discoveries of hundreds of unmarked grave sites at two former residential schools. In late May, the remains of 215 Indigenous children were found at a former residential school in B.C., while the discovery of over 750 unmarked graves in Saskatchewan was announced on June 24.

On Canada Day evening families and groups arrived by the carload at Fiddle Park, as the Town moved ahead with its scheduled Canada Day Drive-In Movie Night, an event they held last year due to COVID-19 restriction.

Instead of setting off traditional fireworks, this year a moment of acknowledgement and reflection was held for the victims and survivors of residential schools.

Julia Davies attended the Shelburne Drive-In movie last year with her family, and chose the return for the event this year.

"It was great, the kids really enjoyed it," said Davies. "It's nice that Shelburne is offering something right out of lockdown."

Davies told the Free Press she was glad the town had chosen a quiet moment of reflection in lieu of the annual fireworks.

"It's something that hits a lot of people close to home, even people in this town, it's important they make it a part of Canada Day."

Krystina Latour, was attending a Shelburne Canada Day celebration with family for the first time, after moving to town from Brampton.

"What they're going instead is more appropriate than doing the fireworks," said Latour. "This is a time to unlearn and it's a sad part of history and we can't pretend that it's not happening because it is. They took a good direction keeping it going, but not doing such as big celebratory thing because it is Canada Day, but it's also an embarrassing time for Canadians."

Shelburne to reduce default speed limit to 40 km/hr

Written By Paula Brown
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Traffic in Shelburne will soon be moving a little bit slower.

Town council, during their meeting on June 28, directed staff to take the immediate steps in reducing the Town's default speed limit from 50 km/hr to 40 km/hr.

"Lately the talk and concerns have been speeding and not just on Greenwood, but everywhere," said Coun. Lindsay Wegener. "It's our job to try to defer that and try to make sure that it doesn't continue to happen."

The decision to lower the speed limit comes after a motion, brought forward by Coun. Wegener, to implement speed humps along Greenwood Street as a way to mitigate speeding on the residential road, was defeated 6-1.

"I certainly don't want to discount speed humps, but personally, I'm not prepared to support a motion to immediately implement them without some further analysis," said Mayor Wade Mills.

Prior to the vote, Coun. Shane Hall said he would be supportive of the motion if relief was provided to motorcycles and bicycles for safe travel.

Stricter penalties go into effect for stunt driving

Written By Paula Brown
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Ontario is cracking down on high-risk driving. Last Thursday (July 1), the Moving Ontario More Safely Act also known as the MOMS Act went into effect, introducing stiffer penalties for stunt driving, speeding, racing, and all forms of aggressive driving.

"It is our goal that through enforcement and public education initiatives that focus on speeding and aggressive driving, we can greatly reduce the number of serious collision," said Dufferin OPP Const. Terri-Ann Pencarinha. "Over and above our efforts, the onus is on aggressive drivers themselves to change their behaviour and do their part to keep everyone safe on our roads."

Under the new legislation, drivers will face stricter punishments including longer license suspensions (30 days up from the previous 7), and a vehicle impoundment period of 14 days.

Also part of the legislation, is the lowering of the speed threshold for street racing offenders on municipal roads. On roads with a posted speed limits of less than 80 km/hr, drivers caught traveling 40 km/hr over the speed limit will face racing/stunt driving charges. The previous limit was 50 km/hr over the speed limit.

"We expect that the harsher consequences will help change some aggressive driving behaviours. The OPP supports any legislation that helps make our roads safer," said Const. Pencarinha. "Suspending a motorist's driver's licence and immediately impounding their vehicle for what will be a period of 14 days sends a strong message that Ontario has zero tolerance for racers and stunt drivers."

According to the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP), over the last three years (2018-2020), speed has been the top contributing factor among the Big Four factors in road fatalities. Speed surpasses deaths linked to impaired driving, inattentive driving and lack of occupant restraint.

The OPP also says that speed-related fatalities are up about 30 per cent this year.

As of June 21, 33 people have died in speed-related collision in Ontario compared to just 25 deaths that occurred during all of last year.

At the time of print, there is no available data specific to stunt driving in Dufferin County with the amalgamation of Orangeville and Shelburne into the OPP.

Const. Pencarinha said it will take a full year to collect this type of data specific to the region.

Shelburne to reduce default speed limit to 40 km/hr

"Generally speed humps go across the entire lane," said Hall. "Motorcycles and bicycles, especially in Greenwood seeing that it has multi-purpose with the signage down, I have concern that might be an issue."

Wegener in response said she had spoken with motorcycle enthusiast in the community about going over speed humps and that if the motorcycle is doing the speed limit, they're not as dangerous.

"If you're speeding, of course, you're going to dump your bike, but if you are doing the speed limit and or less because you know of the signage that you were coming up to speed hump, someone who's a motorcycle enthusiast should know how to control their bike, and they would be safely able to travel over them," said Wegener.

Coun. Kyle Fegan also shared similar concern with the speed humps, and presented an alternative option with speed pylons, which the Town has used in the past, as a way to deter speeders.

"[It] gives you a visual deterrent and subconsciously slows the drivers down," said Fegan.

It was noted during the discussion that other municipalities have had concerns of damage such as scratching vehicles with the speed pylons.

"There's a whole host of options out there and just because they may work on a particular street in a neighbouring municipality doesn't necessarily mean that translates to Greenwood Street in Shelburne," said Mills.

With the default speed limit being lowered to 40 kilometres in the Town, council will have to amend their bylaw. An amending bylaw will be given to council at their July 12 meeting, which once amended will be given to the province for short-form wording.

With areas in the town designated as community safety zones, CAO Denyse Morrissey noted it will need to be determined whether the entire town is designated under these zones, which have significantly higher fines.

"A ticket in a 40, is hopefully a very meaningful deterrent," said Morrissey. "The OPP would also be advised of this direction for enforcement purposes."

All roads in Shelburne, excluding the connecting link portions, will see the speed limit reduced to 40 km/hr.

Shelburne Mayor Wade Mills posted a message on Facebook to community mem-

Shelburne Town Council waives rental fees for parks and fields

Written By Paula Brown
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Local sports teams and organizations are catching a financial break.

Shelburne Town council, during their meeting on June 28, approved a motion by Coun. Lindsay Wegener to waive the rental fees of parks and fields for locally based user groups, and to have the budget impacts directed to the Town's COVID-19 Safe Restart Funding.

"In regular times I would not necessarily recommend this, but we are in COVID times right now and I think a lot of people are struggling," said Wegener. "If we can help them, we should help them."

The decision comes after three community organizations – Shelburne Cricket Club, Towne Fitness and Shelburne Rotary – submitted requests to waive the rental fees at specific parks and fields, for set dates as well as seasonally.

The Shelburne Cricket Club requested that all field use fees at KTH Park for this year be waived, while Towne Fitness asked for the fees to be waived for a fitness program at Hyland Park. Shelburne Rotary, who have annually received support in fee waiving from the Town, requested the waiving of fees for two events scheduled for June 19 and Aug. 8 at Fiddle Park.

"In 2020 council did provide an exemption due to COVID-19, to all field and sport organizations that were Shelburne based to help them manage the significant loss of revenue with the cancellation of their season," said Denyse Morrissey, chief administrative officer.

Morrissey noted to council, that other communities have looked at and implemented a percentage reduction for user fees, as a way to compensate organizations and help them in the same capacity as last year. In some cases the percentage reductions has been as low as 15 per cent and as high as 50 percent.

With other user groups in Shelburne, including fitness facilities, soccer teams and baseball teams, Wegener added they could see other requests to waive rental fees.

"You may expect other organizations to make the same requests and then we would come back with a subsequent report," confirmed Morrissey. "If council directed us similar to the recommendations we made last year to waive as a component of a COVID-19 strategy, there may be more organizations that have cancelled their season that may consider resurrecting part of it, if that was not a financial barrier for them."

Wegener recommended waiving the fees for all local users to avoid repetitive reports, a sentiment shared by Mayor Wade Mills

"It doesn't make a whole lot of sense to deal with these requests on a one-off basis and have staff reports coming back constantly," said Mills. "I think being proactive on this may help some of our organizations jump start what may otherwise be a questionable season."

The Town of Shelburne doesn't have an hourly field fee and instead has a "per game" fee which has traditionally been for field sports like baseball and soccer, whose play time is generally one to two hours.

At KTH Park, adult soccer rates, which would be the same for cricket, are $19.65 and would cost $39.90 for a four hour game and $58.95 for a six hour game.

The cricket season runs from July 2 to Oct. 17 (16 weeks) and with a minimum of one game per week the cost would be $628.80 (four hours) or $943.20 (six hours), plus taxes.

Towne Fitness is running an 18-week program for its members which will be an hour long class, five times per week. There are two cost estimates for Towne Fitness, either a charge of $57 per park use or $16.15, the rate for a youth baseball game.

The Shelburne Rotary would see a cost of $200 per day for the events at Fiddle Park, a total of $800.

Although the Town has waived the rental fees for Shelburne user groups, it does not waive insurance.

A new Governor General

The Prime Minister has announced that Mary Simon will be the new Governor General of Canada.

I certainly hope he has done his homework this time.

After the disastrous tenure of former GG, Julie Payette, we need someone in that office who can act in an official capacity with dignity and represent the nation in an honourable fashion.

Payette resigned in January of 2021. She is only the second person to resign the office - the first being Romeo LeBlanc, who resigned for health reasons.

The difference is LeBlanc voluntarily resigned when he realized his failing health would not allow him to continue in the post while doing the job to his best ability.

Payette resigned in disgrace. She should have never been appointed to the role in the first place.

When someone is appointed to this type of position, part of the deal is the vetting process which determines if they are suitable for the role. This was clearly not done in the case of Payette.

She had to resign after it was revealed she had created a toxic work place at Rideau Hall including verbally abusing employees including 'yelling, screaming, aggressive conduct, and making demeaning comments and public humiliation.' She spent ridiculous amounts of money on frivolous projects and others that never came to fruition.

It was so bad that several long-term employees in the GG's office had to quit their job rather than face daily abuse.

On top of all that, she just didn't step up to do the job.

It wouldn't have taken a lot of investigation to determine she wasn't the right person for the position. Payette has a history of being an absolute jerk and not being able to get along with people.

That's not a good start for someone who is expected to be a public figure.

She had already been forced to leave the Canadian Olympic Committee in 2017 after internal investigations determined mistreatment of her staff including verbal harassment. The same behaviour occurred when she was chief operating officer at the Montreal Science Centre.

Apparently, it also got physical when she was arrested and charged with second degree assault in Maryland, in 2011 - her husband was reportedly the one who got on her wrong side in that case.

A proper vetting process would have revealed that none of her previous employers would have either recommended her or given a positive reference.

That would be rather important when appointing someone to a high office.

After all this and failing at the job, Payette will receive a full pension, and an annual expense account that is worth around six times more than the average person makes in a year.

And we all pay for it.

I'm sure the P.M. took a different approach when selecting this new Governor General. No doubt his inner council of advisors strongly recommended he follow proper protocol and not a 'shoot from the hip' approach by pulling a name from a hat.

Mary Simon will be the first Indigenous person to serve in the role as GG.

A quick look at her resume indicates she is more suitable than her predecessor in a prominent public position.

She is the former Canadian ambassador to Denmark, and the Canadian ambassador for circumpolar affairs.

As a diplomat, she has the experience of dealing with people in various levels of society. You won't last long in a diplomatic role if you don't know how to deal with people.

BRIAN LOCKHART FROM THE SECOND ROW

As an Indigenous person, the posting may offer some reconciliation across the nation.

A lot of people think the position of Governor General should just be eliminated.

It is really just a ceremonial job with no real power. Most people aren't really sure what the job entails other than seeing the occasional medal ceremony at Rideau Hall on some obscure TV channel and none of us have a say in who will be appointed to the position.

I've met many politicians in my life including two prime ministers, but never once have I been at an event where it was announced the GG was going to be there.

If we are going to maintain this ceremonial role, which costs a lot of taxpayer money, we deserve to have someone in the position who will fulfill the obligations of the post and behave with the dignity and responsibility that should be inherent with the role of Governor General.

Afghanistan: After the Fall

Five times in the past two weeks, government soldiers in Badakhshan and Takhar provinces in northern Afghanistan have fled across the border into Tajikistan after clashes with Taliban militants. They didn't lose the firefights, and they're not cowards; 1,600 trained soldiers - over 100 a day - just fled abroad to avoid further combat. Nobody wants to be the last man to die in a lost war.

Everybody in the Afghan national army already knows that the war is lost. So the U.S. intelligence reports predicting that Ashraf Ghani's puppet government (the term is not too harsh) could fall within six to twelve months of a U.S. troop withdrawal are too optimistic.

The last German, Italian and British troops left Afghanistan last week, and the last US troops are leaving right now, apart from some 650 soldiers to guard the American embassy and the airport. (Always hold the airport, because people lined up on the embassy roof waiting for the last helicopter out is a bad look).

But Kabul may fall in a lot less than six months. The Taliban already hold at least half the country and they are currently taking new districts literally every day, including ones only an hour's drive north and south of the capital. The army is just melting away, and the air force will be grounded within weeks once the foreign technical support goes home.

The mujahideen group that became the Taliban spent ten years fighting the Russian occupation, then seven years fighting the local regime and rival mujahideen groups; then five years in power; and then another twenty years fighting the US occupation. Unsurprisingly, they have learned a few things in that time.

Most importantly, they have expanded their membership and influence among the non-Pashtun groups: the northern provinces that are now falling to them so fast are the areas they never controlled during their last time in power. They will not just win quickly this time. They will win completely.

Then there will be a period of vengeance-taking in which 'traitors' who worked for the Americans or other NATO countries will be hunted down and killed.

Women will be driven out of the workforce, girls' schools will be closed, music will be banned, and men will be beaten for not wearing beards. The wicked foreign behaviours that were introduced by the Russian occupation and brought back by the U.S. occupation will be expunged, and the Taliban's extreme version of Islam will reign unchallenged.

GWYNNE DYER OUR WORLD TODAY

It is a tragedy for Afghanistan, but it won't really matter much for the world. The Taliban have never had any interest in the rest of the world. Their agenda was and still is entirely domestic and religious: make Afghanistan a properly God-fearing place, and all the other good things will follow automatically.

The notion that Afghanistan will become a major terrorist base again once the Taliban regain power is based on the foolish belief that it was an important base for terrorist activity the first time around. Terrorists don't actually need 'bases'; the essence of the enterprise is to be invisible until you strike, and the weapons you need are neither large nor hard to obtain.

Most of the 9/11 hijackers got some 'training' in Osama bin Laden's camp, but they were Arabs, not Afghans, and how much training do you need to hijack an airplane? Well, OK, four of them needed flight training, but they did that in the United States.

Bin Laden was only in Afghanistan because American pressure got him expelled from his previous 'base' in Sudan.

The Taliban leader, Mullah Omar, let him set up in Kandahar because the two men had become close friends when working in the 1980s in the American-backed jihad against the Russians in Afghanistan.

But did Bin Laden tell Omar about his plan to kill thousands of Americans by hijacking commercial aircraft? The first principle of all secret work is 'need to know', and Omar didn't need to know. Indeed, he might have objected if he did know, because he would have realised that Afghanistan would get invaded if the 9/11 attack went ahead.

Afghanistan wasn't a 'major terrorist base' in the past, and it probably won't become one in the future. And if it does, so what? At least then you'll know where they are.

Dufferin OPP respond to multiple thefts from vehicles

The Dufferin Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) is currently investigating multiple thefts from vehicles in the Town of Orangeville.

On June 28, 2021, officers responded to several complaints of theft from cars in the Chisholm Street area in Orangeville.

Dufferin OPP is asking residents in the area of Chisholm Street, especially the townhome complex located at 60 Chisholm Street to check their security cameras for any suspicious activity and report it to police.

WDG approaching 80 per cent of adults with first dose of vaccine

Written By Paula Brown
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Wellington-Dufferin-Guelph (WDG) Public Health has nearly reached 80 per cent of the adult population with a first dose of the COVID-19 vaccine – now officials say they're focused on those who are still on the fence.

to figure out whether or not they want to get vaccinated, to step up and get vaccinated," said Rita Isley, director of community health. "This is also the population that if they are having a hard time finding a clinic, if they're having a hard time access a clinic, or they are in a situation where they're not quite sure, we're asking them to either call or show up at one of the clinics.

WDG Public Health reported that on the day of July 5 4,476 COVID-19 vaccines were administered, with 4,052 of those being second doses and 424 first doses. Some 116,000 residents over the age of 12 are considered fully vaccinated to date, equal to 43.1 per cent of the eligible population.

In Dufferin County, 73.3 per cent of the eligible population is partially vaccinated.

With Wellington-Dufferin-Guelph region considered a hotspot for the Delta variant, Isley noted the urgency for unvaccinated residents.

"Getting vaccinated doesn't prevent you from getting COVID-19, it's not 100 per cent but it is really high. The other part of it is that getting vaccinated will stop you from going into the hospital, or having some really significant illness."

The efficacy of the mRNA vaccine against the Delta variant is 80 percent.

"That still leaves 20 percent but what it means is that the 20 percent that are vaccinated, if they come in contact with the Delta variant, they're going to be able to recover."

As of Monday (July 5) Ontarians aged 12-17 are allowed to book their second dose earlier.

"Unfortunately, what we're seeing with the youth is no different than in our general population. There's a section of our youth that still haven't got their vaccines. It could be related to the fact that their parents haven't been vaccinated or they're not able to get access to a clinic," said Isley.

While supply of vaccines was an early issue in the distribution of doses, Isley says the health unit now has enough to last throughout the month of July.

"We have enough vaccines to be able to do second doses on everyone that we've already given first doses to, and we're also able to continue to do first doses," said Isley.

With COVID-19 vaccine doses no longer prioritized for certain groups and all Ontarians eligible to receive it, Public Health is setting the target bar higher.

"We would like to see closer to 90 percent of our population vaccinated with one dose and we would like to see the per cent that have been vaccinated as of today to have their second doses in their arms by the end of July," said Isley.

Drive-in Ribfest returning to Amaranth July 16 and July 17

Written By Sam Odrowski

It's been said that when the going gets tough, the tough eat ribs, and that's exactly what Dufferin residents are being invited to do next Friday and Saturday.

For the second year in a row, the Orangeville Rotary's Ribfest is operating with a drive-thru format and will again be set up at the Headwaters Fitness and Racquet Club parking lot (205467 Dufferin Rd 109, Amaranth) on July 16 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. and July 17 from 12 p.m. to 8 p.m. The event has been shortened from its usual three days to two – same as last year.

The Ribfest won't feature any entertainment, car show or beer tent, but there will be the same moulder watering ribs from two of the best ribbers around – Brickyard BBQ and Gator BBQ.

"We don't have massive expectations, because it's not a traditional rib fest... it's really just an opportunity for the community to at least have the dinner that they expect in the summer," noted Michael Wright, Rotarian and Orangeville Ribfest co-chair.

In addition to the two ribbers, there will be three vendors that have you covered for side dishes, such as French fries and corn on the cob. The Palgrave Rotary Club's also going to be in attendance, selling grilled cheese sandwiches, while Tiny Toms Donuts serves up the dessert.

"People will be able to get any of those side dishes on the way up to get the ribs and all their food needs will be met," said Wright.

Both ribbers attending this year's drive-thru event are award winning and have been great supporters of the Orangeville Ribfest in the past, noted Wright. And when it comes to quality ribs, he says these guys don't miss.

"With these ribbers – this is what they do – this is how they make their living, by providing really good quality food to community events and so they always surpass our expectations," noted Wright.

Meanwhile, one of the main reasons the ribfest is held each year is to fundraise for various projects and support not-for-profit organizations in the community.

Last year, the Orangeville Rotary Club was able to raise more than $22,000 for the Headwaters Health Care Foundation. This year the club doesn't have a specific cause it's supporting but all of the money will stay in the community and be directed back to charities in need.

Wright told the Citizen he isn't expecting to raise nearly as much money as they did when the event was in-person, with revenue in excess of $75,000 back in 2019, but he's hopeful it might be comparable to last year. With very little advertising or promotion the event saw 1,000 cars lined up.

This year's ribfest will again be COVID-19 safe with those purchasing ribs able to do it from the comfort of their car.

While the Orangeville Rotary Club would have much preferred to bring back the regular, in-person ribfest, it wasn't possible to properly plan around the current COVID-19 restrictions.

Looking ahead to next year, Wright says he's looking forward to bringing back the usual ribfest, which generally sees up to 20,000 visitors over the weekend.

"We just cannot wait to be able to get back to a traditional ribfest. We've had a lot of the bands that have been reaching out to us with hopes that we were going to be able to do something this year but that just wasn't the case," he explained.

"Certainly, we're looking forward to it next year. That's what it's all about. It's a massive community event that our entire club looks forward to every year. The community has always supported ribfest, just hugely supported us, and we just cannot wait to get back to seeing everybody again."

But in the meantime, while COVID-19 is still presenting its challenges, Wright says he encourages everyone to stop by the drive-thru event for a delicious rack of ribs.

"This is the dinner event that people look forward to every year, they always look forward to the music, all that sort of thing and everybody's well aware that can't happen anymore. It just gives us at least an opportunity to have the dinner event, bring it home, enjoy it with your family, and make sure that Rotary is still able to do what we can do in the community," he explained.

The annual ribfest is made possible through the support of its many sponsors. To view a full list, visit the sponsor page of their website: <https://www.orangevillieribfest.com/sponsors/>

Shelburne welcomes new dentist Dr. Faisal Waseem

Written By Sam Odrowski

Get your smiles ready, there's a new dentist in town.

Dr. Faisal Waseem, a locally-based dentist, has officially taken over ownership of the former Small Town Family Dental located on Main Street in Shelburne, and has rebranded the clinic – Shelburne Village Dental.

"I'm very familiar with the Shelburne area and I see an opportunity here to take a running dental practice, and make it into something special," Dr. Waseem tells the Free Press.

Dr. Waseem has spent the last decade working as a dentist in Orangeville, joining Heritage Dental Centre in 2010. Raised in Mississauga, he studied anthropology at the University of Toronto, taught English while living abroad in Japan, and later obtained his Doctor of Dental Surgery (DDS) degree at his alma mater. Dr. Waseem also trained at a hospital in Upstate New York, after graduating.

Presented with the opportunity to take over the dental clinic in January of this year, Dr. Waseem closed the deal on June 25.

Shelburne Village Dental is a comprehensive care clinic, which provides services from general and child dentistry to implants and cosmetics.

With warm tones, and exposed brick the waiting room of Shelburne Village Dental is far removed from the typical feel of dental offices. Dr. Waseem said it was one of the factors that intrigued him.

"I think this practice has a different effect on patients and how they feel when they walk in," said Dr. Waseem "It's not white floors and white walls, it's a quaint, relaxed setting."

Starting his own practice, Dr. Waseem said he is hoping to invest in further technologies in the dentist industry that will benefit the local community.

"People have similar dental concerns and problems across all walks of life. A root canal, an implant, or an extraction, it's all very universal. What I'm trying to do is create a clinic where I feel patients would be treated competently and professional in Shelburne, as opposed to having to commute out," said Dr. Waseem.

Given the circumstances of the previous owner's conviction in a sexual assault case, Dr. Waseem shared a messages with the community.

"A lot of trust has been broken and maybe lost, but here at Shelburne Village Dental we want to try to re-establish that trust."

Legion president, Lesa Peat steps down from her role

Written By Paula Brown
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Lesa Peat, the president of the Shelburne Legion Branch 220, has stepped down after more than half a decade in the role.

The Shelburne Legion officially announced the change to its executive in a Facebook post last Thursday (July 1).

"It was [a] tough decision, certainly, this was the past seven years of my life, but I stepped down from the title so that things could move forward," said Peat who noted her plans to move out of Shelburne. "Even though I resigned as president, I will remain on the executive as the membership chair until I move."

A Shelburne resident since 1989, Peat has spent many years part of the local legion. Starting with cleaning the facilities through her own cleaning company, she went on to work for them part-time as a bartender before becoming an Executive member, and later Branch president in 2014.

"I really like to help people out, especially the seniors and veterans, and I don't mean just the older veterans, we've had quite a few young veterans come through with PTSD," said Peat.

Speaking with the Free Press, Peat explained how her grandfather, William Robert Stevenson, was a World War II veterans and her great-grand father was in World War I. Both were flight instructors.

"Growing up with my grandfather, I never understood why he was the way he was. It wasn't until I was older that I understood what I was witnessing was more of a PTSD type situation," said Peat.

William Robert Stevenson, is one of the veterans featured each year on the Shelburne Hometown Heroes banners, a local initiative which Peat sat on the four-member committee of and helped bring to the community. Hometown Heroes, launched in 2015, and honours veterans during the month of November.

When asked about what she has been most proud of during her time as Legion president, Peat said being part of the Hometown Heroes banners, as well as looking after the veterans and seeing the youth grow in the legion community.

Liz Whitten, a past president in 2012 and 2013 at the local legion, will be taking over the role of president.

"It's exciting, I have a lot of things to remember some of which come naturally and some I have to read up on, but I am going to give it my best and I have a great executive with me that are willing to help," said Whitten.

Other changes in the membership include Dean Schroeder stepping up to 1st vice, Phillip Norris stepping up to 2nd vice, April Addison being appointed sports officer and Peat taking over as membership chair.

"Nothing has changed and this organization is still there for all of them [the community]," said Peat. "Come out and help support the new executive to make this future and bright one."
