Easily spent

Dear editor:
Howdy Folks. I hope that Mulmur councillor, Keith Lowry had ?lots of fun? as the brochure says, at the 4-day recreation conference he attended in Calabogie September 21 ? 24.
The conference cost the ratepayers of Mulmur $1575, as per motion 154?15. But not to worry his attendance was in alignment with the Mulmur Strategic Plan. Interesting that Mr. Lowry's election platform included his spearheading the Strategic Plan.
Now I am all for council members being educated on matters of town business though I am concerned that only too often they miss the point. Fifteen hundred dollars could be well spent on recreation development as opposed to a vision.
According to Mulmur's' guiding principles and goals of recreation they want to encourage access to residents and visitors. When they are promoting ?Mulmur as a destination for historic, athletic, and gastronomic recreation? do they include motorcycle touring? I wonder what it is they mean by ?gastronomic recreation??
PS ? The Mansfield Message Board is a disgrace and for anyone who wants to learn ?The Olde Tyme Calabogie Shuffle? contact Councillor Lowry.
