The Satisfaction Café by Kathy Wang: Joan Liang never thought she would leave Taiwan for California, nor did she expect her first marriage to implode as quickly as it did. She definitely did not expect to fall in love with an older, wealthy American and become his fourth wife and mother to his youngest children. Through all this she wrestles with one persistent question: Will she ever truly feel satisfied? As Joan and her children grow older, she makes a drastic change: she opens the Satisfaction Café, a place where people can visit for conversation and to be heard and understood. Through this radical yet pragmatic business, Joan constructs a lasting legacy.

Why Rose recommends it: The Satisfaction Café is a unique premise; who would have thought about opening a café-style business that brings together experts and patrons in an effort to give patrons the ultimate satisfaction-- being understood.

Each of the experts brings their individual experiences to the table, which adds value and understanding to the professional relationship they have with the Café's patrons. If you're looking for something different to read, The Satisfaction Café might fit the bill.
