Historic Corbetton Church reopens after extensive renovations

Written By PAULA BROWN
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

Have a wedding, a celebration of life, or an annual general meeting to host? The Museum of Dufferin has just the rental space for you.

The Museum of Dufferin's historic Corbetton Church has reopened following interior renovations and is now ready for the community to rent.

"It's such a beautiful building and I am super impressed with how quickly and beautiful the renovations turned out. I'm excited because we can now imagine all of the different ways that people can use the space and that we can use the space. We're already planning lots of fun activities to do in there," said Jasmine Proteau, manager of the Museum of Dufferin.

The Corbetton Wesleyan Methodist Church was originally built in 1885. In 1925, the church became known as St. James United and served its community for 112 years until its closure in 1997. The church building was moved to the grounds of the MoD in 1999 from the village of Corbetton in Melancthon Township.

Over the years, the church space has been used to host weddings, christenings, memorials, concerts and presentations.

In April, Proteau met with Dufferin County Council to pitch a five-year fundraising and sponsorship plan for the museum, which included improvements to the museum and the Corbetton Church.

The purpose of the renovations was to improve the accessibility of the church to increase the rental usage by the community.

"We found that the fixed seating and dim lighting was difficult for folks, especially those with accessibility needs," explained Proteau. "There was also really only one kind of use for it, so we decided we'd rather use the building and get more people into it to enjoy."

The renovations to the Corbetton Church cost $13,399 and were funded through Dufferin County's Museum Trust as well as fundraising from the sale of the church pews. The renovations included the removal of old church pews, repainting, additional lighting to brighten the space, and new folding chairs and tables.

Proteau noted that while the church was moved to the MoD to preserve it, it is no longer historically accurate due to renovations needed in the 1999 move.

"The church is beautiful and obviously it's amazing to keep these types of things preserved, but it also limits people from using it," said Proteau. "The small modifications that we needed really make a huge difference to keeping it an active part of the community rather than behind a glass wall."

Proteau added they're hoping the money made through rentals of the church will also help support other upgrades at the museum,

REVITALIZED PIECE OF HISTORY: The Museum of Dufferin has completed interior renovations costing more than $13,000 on the Corbetton Church. The renovations were done to upgrade the accessibility of the church as well as create rental opportunities.

including their plans to renovate the welcome desk area to be more accessible for mobility devices.

"There's different projects we're trying to do to improve the museum for our visitors and offer more accessibility for people," she said.

The Corbetton Church is available for rental between April and October.

Shelburne Rotary Club member honoured with Paul Harris Fellow Award

Written By PAULA BROWN
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

The Rotary Club of Shelburne has recognized the dedication and contributions of one of their own members with a prestigious award.

The local Rotary Club presented member Michelle Chidwick with the Paul Harris Fellow Award for Advanced Changeover BBQ.

“While Michelle is still fairly new to the club, her impact was felt immediately as she conceived and continues to lead our Thanksgiving weekend PumpkinFest event,” wrote the Rotary Club of Shelburne in a press release. “Michelle’s energy, enthusiasm, and dedication to making our community and the world a better place is greatly appreciated.”

The Paul Harris Fellow Award is the highest award given by Rotary International. It is presented to a person who has made outstanding contributions to their community and exemplifies the Rotary ideal of “service above self.” Named after Rotary founder, Paul Harris, the award was established in 1957 to encourage and show appreciation for substantial contributions to a program known then as, the Rotary Foundation Fellowships for Advanced Study.

“I was definitely surprised to receive the award. It’s a very big award in the Rotary world so to be able to receive it was a really big honour,” said Chidwick. “The Shelburne Rotary Club is such as great community and they’ve welcomed me with open arms. I’ve really got to see the amazing things they’re able to help the community with.”

Chidwick joined the Rotary Club of Shelburne between 2022 and 2023. She recently became a part of the executive board for the Shelburne Rotary Club in the role of secretary, and will serve as the local Rotary’s Youth Exchange counsellor.

“Seeing how much they do for the community from an event and fundraising standpoint, it’s really something I wanted to be able to give back to the community I live in and work in,” said Chidwick.

Past community recipients of the Paul Harris Fellow Award include Greg and Heather Holmes, who hosted the annual musical event, Pickin’ in the Park, and helped raise donations for Fiddle Park improvements and the Shelburne Food Bank.

Ardith Dunlop, volunteer coordinator for the Shelburne Food Bank, received the award in 2023 for her 30 years of volunteer service with the local food bank.

Last year, the award was given to Tim Hortons owner John Lewandowski for his support of the local Rotary Club through the annual Smile Cookie Campaign.

Dufferin County gets kudos for efforts on reducing homelessness in the community

Written By JAMES MATTHEWS

A national organization has recognized Dufferin County for its work against chronic homelessness.

The county reduced chronic homelessness by 32 per cent as of February 2025 and has remained at least 10 per cent below the county’s baseline month since the fall of 2019.

According to the Canadian Alliance to End Homelessness (CAEH), Dufferin County has remained laser-focused on ending long-term homelessness for years.

“This dedicated community has sustained reductions by pivoting their energy and efforts based on the changing needs of their neighbours and trends in their By-Name Data,” stated a CAEH press release.

The County’s Coordinated Access Table comes together weekly to problem-solve the housing process and to ensure coordinated and intentional housing support for people. Their latest goal is to reduce the average length of time from entry into homelessness to exit into housing.

Lowering the number of folks who experience long-term homelessness is critical for reaching deeper reductions.

Brenda Wagner, the County’s health and human services director, said being named a community bright spot by the Canadian Alliance to End Homelessness is both humbling and energizing. It’s proof positive their work has had a tangible impact.

“It reaffirms that the collaborative work happening across Dufferin County from frontline outreach to policy innovation,” she said. “Reducing chronic homelessness by 32 per cent is a significant stride and it reflects the commitment of our local service providers, community partners, and those with lived experience who have helped guide our efforts.”

According to the alliance, Dufferin County has sustained reductions in homelessness by prioritizing housing resources for the chronic population, including allowances directly funded by the county.

The homelessness team works closely with community housing and maintains relationships with private market landlords to maximize available housing options at every turn.

“This progress can largely be attributed to our shift toward Housing First principles, enhanced data coordination, and a deepened focus on prevention and wraparound support,” Wagner said. “While there is still much work to do, this recognition is a powerful reminder that our community’s compassion, resilience, and resolve are driving real change.”

Province commits $9.5 million to enhance transit between Orangeville and Dundalk

Written By PAULA BROWN
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

Residents, businesses and visitors across Grey, Bruce and Dufferin counties can look forward to rural transit enhancements over the next five years.

The three counties announced in a joint press release on June 27 that they’ve secured up to $9.5 million in funding from the province through the Ontario Transit Investment Funding (OTIF) to develop a unified regional transit network.

The project will be completed in partnership with the Saugeen Mobility and Regional Transit (SMART).

“Access to affordable and reliable transportation is essential to the economic, social and environmental health of rural communities,” says Grey County Warden Andrea Matrosovs, on behalf of the partnership. “We’re excited the province sees value in rural transit in our region and grateful for the significant investment that will help build a sustainable transit network across Grey, Bruce and Dufferin counties.”

The tri-county transit project will look to establish a seamless, equitable and efficient transit network connecting the three counties and enhance mobility for residents. The development of the transit network will be based on transition planning reports completed by Grey, Bruce and Dufferin counties.

The transit project will receive funding through the OTIF for five years, which will be used to start up and grow the regional transit network.

The first year of service will include the continuation of the Dundalk to Orangeville transit route, known as Route 2. During this time, there will also be an in-depth study with collaboration from existing transit operators, community engagement and the creation of a request for proposal for a vendor to support the implementation of the regional transit network.

No additional services will be added to the project until a full study and costing have been completed and a vendor is selected. The timeline for these steps is expected to happen no earlier than 2026.

Orangeville Food Bank opens new location for Dufferin Food Share/Grand Valley Food Bank

Written By SAM ODROWSKI

The Orangeville Food Bank announced it will be opening the new home of the Dufferin Food Share/Grand Valley Food Bank at 27 Main St. N.

A community open house will be held on Aug. 25 from 4 to 6 p.m. at the new location.

“Residents, partners, and local leaders are warmly invited to tour the space and discover the valuable services it will offer,” reads a press release from the Orangeville Food Bank on Monday (July 6).

The new food bank location will begin serving clients in early September and represents a significant advancement in enhancing food access throughout Dufferin County, according to the Orangeville Food Bank.

“Many families in and around Grand Valley have long faced transportation barriers to accessing food support. This location not only bridges that gap — it opens doors to a deeper level of community collaboration,” said Carrie-Anne DeCaprio, donor engagement and outreach manager at the Orangeville Food Bank.

The new facility features shared office space for local service agencies that have not previously had a physical presence in Grand Valley. This is intended to strengthen support for vulnerable residents beyond food access.

“This launch is made possible thanks to the unwavering support of local donors, volunteers, and community partners who share our mission of ensuring food security for all,” said the Orangeville Food Bank.

“Everyone is welcome to attend the open house. Light refreshments will be served.”

Please RSVP to carrie-anne.decaprio@orangevillefoodbank.org if you plan on attending the community open house.

Who's paying for this?

If you have ever had nieces and nephews, you probably had a lot of fun giving them gifts when they were growing up.

I really enjoyed watching their faces light up when they received something they really liked.

When they were really young, a toy of some sort usually made them happy.

As they get older, gift-giving becomes a bit of a challenge. It's hard to figure out what to give a 12-year-old girl or a 14-year-old boy. Their version of what is cool just won't be the same as yours, and a brand-spanking new package of tube socks just won't cut it.

This is when you usually start giving cash in a greeting card. The kid gets to buy something they really want, and you avoid the agony of figuring out what a teenager would like.

My own suggestion to them was to put it in the bank, and over the course of saving from an early age, someday they could be the proud owner of a Chevy Corvette.

However, there comes a time when giving a niece or nephew an envelope with cash just sort of goes away. It would be awkward to give a grown man or woman an envelope with cash and tell them to buy something nice, especially when they now make more money than you do.

They are self-sufficient and have hopefully learned the value of a dollar and use their income appropriately.

I think the same way of thinking should be applied to foreign aid – the billions of dollars we give to other countries who have been 'developing' for close to 100 years.

Canada and other nations have been pumping billions of dollars into African countries and other countries around the world for decades, and they still want more.

Many, if not all, African countries have abundant resources available, and that could create a lot of wealth and jobs. However, they have leaders who are either unwilling or unable to capitalize on what is available in their own backyard.

That, along with the corruption that exists and the skimming of funds, means the financial aid never really does what it is supposed to do.

It is also frustrating to constantly receive solicitations from big charity agencies that claim $2 a day, less than you spend on a coffee every morning, will apparently feed some kid and his family for a week.

I would have no problem helping feed poor children in a foreign country if I really thought it would help. But then I see the salaries of the executives who run these international charities, and I know my $2 is really going to help pay for marina fees for someone's new yacht.

Canada spent around $8 billion on foreign aid in 2023. A large part of that, around $1.5 billion, was spent domestically to support refugees, asylum claimants, and Ukrainians who fled the Russian invasion.

At the same time, the local hospital where I live is trying to raise $80 million to build a new hospital. Government funding does not pay for new hospitals in Canada.

That money must be raised by local citizens and businesses.

At the same time, Canadian citizens are working hard to raise money to build a hospital, foreign aid drops millions into other countries to support healthcare for free.

The old theory of 'teach a man to fish and he eats for a lifetime,' just isn't working.

Helping a neighbour in times of need is something we should all do.

If you had a new neighbour who asked you for help because he just got a new lawnmower, but he can't afford the gas, has no idea how to operate it, and has no concept of small engines, you would likely show him how to start the mower and cut the grass. You might cut it for him just so you don't have a neighbour with an unsightly, overgrown yard next to your property. You might also take the gas can to the local gas station and put in $2 worth of gas to help him out.

However, if ten years in a row he shows up at your door in the spring, telling you he has no money for gas, and has no idea how to start the lawnmower, your likely response would be 'Get a job and figure it out.'

It's time for many of these countries to step up, grow up, and find their own way rather than always standing with a hand out and expecting the West to pay.

FROM THE SECOND ROW

Long live the Dalai Lama

The whole business of succession would be a lot simpler if the Dalai Lama could just regenerate, like Doctor Who. When the time comes for The Doctor to stop looking like David Tennant and start looking like Matt Smith, there's flame coming out of his head and gushing out of his sleeves, and then he explodes. When the smoke clears, there's the new Doctor.

There's no delay and no doubt. Once you accept (temporarily) the show's basic premise that Doctor Who is a benevolent immortal alien who periodically 'regenerates' from one human form to another, not even being consistent in ethnicity or gender from one body to the next, you know instantly that it's the same Doctor in there despite appearances.

With the dear old Dalai Lama, it's different. Reincarnation still happens, but the souls of the dead migrate into the bodies of the newborn and retain no memory of their previous lives. This becomes a problem when the soul of your religion's leader has to be tracked down in one of those thousands who were born around the same time the leader died.

That is exactly the problem facing the Gelug 'Yellow Hat' tradition of Tibetan Buddhism, whose leader, the Dalai Lama, turned 90 on Sunday. He will therefore soon be leaving his current incarnation, and it will be the task of his closest associates to track down the young child in whom his soul has taken up residence – who will then become the next Dalai Lama.

Then the troubles really start, because Tibet has been officially part of the People's Republic of China since the Chinese invasion of 1950 and Beijing does not like religious leaders who are beyond its control. In fact, it doesn't like religious leaders at all, especially if they also embody the national aspirations of a subject people – and least of all if they live abroad.

The Dalai Lama ticks every box. He fled Tibet in the midst of a CIA-backed popular rebellion against foreign rule in 1959. He has lived in exile ever since in the northern Indian city of Dharamshala, surrounded by tens of thousands of other Tibetan exiles. And he heads what is in practice a Tibetan government-in-exile, although no other country recognizes it.

There is nevertheless a good deal of ambient sympathy for Tibet not only in Western countries but in countries of the global south that got their independence just as Tibet was losing its own. They never say anything about it out loud because China is far too big and rich to risk offending, but they do know a colonial relationship when they see one.

This makes the Communist authorities in Beijing nervous even though there is no real challenge to Chinese control. They therefore see the Dalai Lama's passing, whenever it happens, as a golden opportunity to 'nationalize' Tibetan Buddhism by giving the state the power to choose his successor.

We already had a preview of this 35 years ago when the Panchen Lama, second only to the Dalai Lama, died. After a lengthy but low-profile search Tibetan monks found a six-year-old boy called Gedhun Choekyi Nyima who matched the requirements, and the Dalai Lama (in exile) proclaimed him as the new Panchen Lama in 1995.

The little boy and his family were immediately arrested and 'disappeared'; none of them has ever been seen again. The Dalai Lama will not make that mistake twice: he has already said that his next reincarnation will be found in "the free world", which presumably means outside China.

But the vast majority of Tibetans still live in Tibet, and it is already clear that they will get a different Dalai Lama, chosen for them by the Communist regime. It could end up like the Great Western Schism of 1378-1417, with two and then three popes at the same time – and that situation could easily last as long, depending on what happens to China in the long run.

All of this is ultimately about the survival of a separate Tibetan identity, which is still theoretically possible. Beijing has not yet adopted the final solution it is applying to the Uyghur minority: only Chinese may be used in the schools in both regions, but the Tibetans are not yet being drowned with Han Chinese immigrants.

The Chinese Communist regime is now a little bit older than the Soviet Union was when it collapsed, but the CCP is still going strong. If it lasts another fifty years, Tibet's identity will certainly be eradicated, for there are more than 200 Chinese for every Tibetan. But if it's gone in 20 years, Tibetan culture may well survive.

Monthly Message: Streams offers more than just summer camp

If you walk into our space on a summer morning, you'll hear laughter before you open the door. Inside, kids are shaping dough, learning new dance moves, threading needles, testing out lines from a script, or sitting quietly, sketching in a corner. On the surface, it looks like a typical day camp. But there's something different happening here.

At Streams, we see summer as more than a break from school. It's an opportunity to build something lasting. Confidence. Friendship. Skill. Wonder. The kind of things that don't show up on a report card but shape a child all the same.

Some kids come in on their very first day, too shy to speak above a whisper. Some arrive bubbling over with energy, looking for somewhere to belong. Some are carrying things that don't show. And yet, within a few days, you start to see shifts. A little more light in the eyes. A little more ease in the body. A little more willingness to try. By midweek, the change is often so dramatic that we've come to call Wednesdays "Wacky Wednesdays." It's practically lore at Streams. The quiet ones are suddenly cracking jokes. The unsure ones are dancing at lunch. If you're planning a visit, just don't come on a Wednesday. You might walk into a costume contest, a baking experiment gone sideways, or a spontaneous sing-along. In other words, a whole lot of joy.

What makes our camp different isn't just the programming. It's the people and the culture we've built. Our instructors are artists and educators, yes, but they're also mentors. They remember names. They notice who's hanging back. They make room for big personalities and quiet ones, too.

Parents often tell us they're amazed at how much their kids learn in a week. But what they're really noticing is growth. The kind that happens when children feel safe, seen, and free to be themselves.

This summer, we're running eight full weeks of creative programming in everything from baking to music to visual art to theatre. And behind every workshop and activity is the same heart: to give kids a place to thrive, not just pass the time.

We believe camp should feel like a home away from home. A place to discover new things, make new friends, and take small but meaningful risks. Whether it's singing in front of a group for the first time or finally mastering a complicated stitch, these moments matter. They stay with you.

For some families, camp is the only structured space their kids will have access to all summer. For others, it's a chance to explore passions they wouldn't otherwise get to try. For all of them, it's a gift.

We're so grateful to every donor, sponsor, and supporter who makes this possible. And we're inviting more of our community to get involved.

We're also continuing our One of 1000 campaign — a year-long effort to find 1,000 monthly donors who believe in safe, creative spaces for kids and want to help us keep this going. We're just shy of our first milestone of 100 donors, and every new partner brings us closer. A gift of just $10 a month makes a lasting impact.

To learn more or become one of 1000, visit streamshub.org/oneof1000.

Because when kids have a place to grow, the whole community gets stronger.

Teddy Bear Clinic for kids returning to Headwaters Health Care Centre

Written By PAULA BROWN
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

Dufferin County residents, mark your calendars for the return of a "beary" special tradition at Headwaters Health Care Centre (HHCC).

Headwaters Hospital announced in a press release on Tuesday (July 8) that its much-loved Teddy Bear Clinic would be making its return on Sept. 6 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the local hospital, located at 100 Rolling Hills Drive.

The Teddy Bear Clinic is designed to reduce childhood anxiety about hospitals and medical care but inviting children to bring their stuffed toys to the hospital for a fun, pretend health care experience.

During the clinic, the children take part in an interactive guided hospital "check-up" for their stuffed friends, where they learn about medical equipment, healthcare workers, healthy lifestyles and what to expect during a real hospital visit.

"This event is so special to both our hospital and our community. We work hard to create a warm and friendly atmosphere where children can feel safe while exploring healthcare. It's all about making things less scary through fun and helping to spark their curiosity about how hospitals help people," said Juliann McArthur, manager of patient experience and the lead of the Teddy Bear Clinic.

In addition to the Teddy Bear Clinic, the hospital grounds will be transformed into a lively carnival celebration with a BBQ, exciting games, a petting zoo bus, and plenty of hands-on activities for the whole family.

The community event is free and open to the public.

"We invite families to save the date and bring along their favourite stuffed toys for a day of learning, laughter, and making memories together," concluded Headwaters.

FLUFFY FRIENDS: Headwaters Health Care Centre is holding a Teddy Bear Clinic on Sept. 6 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The event is annual and children have enjoyed receiving specialized care for their stuffed animals over the years. Running alongside the clinic is a carnival style celebration with a BBQ, petting zoo bus and hands-on activities. The event is free and open to all.

It's a Holly, jolly idea: Orangeville Citizen launches inaugural Christmas market

Written By SAM ODROWSKI

A new festive tradition is coming. HollyFest.

The Orangeville Citizen is proud to announce HollyFest, a two-day indoor artisan Christmas market taking place on Nov. 22 and 23 at the Orangeville Agricultural Society (OAS) Event Centre.

The event is a curated shopping experience featuring handcrafted goods, a sip-savour area, live holiday entertainment, and an upscale festive atmosphere. And of course, a special guest in a red suit will make the journey from the North Pole.

"Following the successful launch of Our Routes magazine (a quarterly lifestyle magazine published by the Orangeville and Caledon Citizen), in 2024, we're excited to introduce another initiative with the same quality and enthusiasm," said Doug Rowe, general manager of the Orangeville Citizen and show director of HollyFest. "We're confident this event will become a seasonal favourite."

Vendor Applications Now Open

HollyFest is accepting applications from vendors.

Interested artisans can apply by emailing: shows@lpcmedia.ca

Or visit: bit.ly/45F0h3Y
The application deadline is Aug. 29, with early acceptance notifications sent out to applicants who apply before July 25.

Vendor selection will not follow a first-come, first-served model. Preference will be given to applicants offering handmade products, and selection will be based on originality to ensure a thoughtfully curated marketplace with minimal product overlap. All booths will be professionally draped for a polished and cohesive presentation.

Marketing and Promotional Support

Vendors accepted into HollyFest will benefit from extensive promotion within the Citizen's network of newspapers, which collectively reach over 78,000 homes weekly. Each vendor will also receive a complimentary business card-sized ad in the special HollyFest preview section of the newspaper.

Additionally, the event will be supported by a comprehensive promotional campaign, including social media integration, radio advertising, billboards, and road signage, providing vendors with outstanding exposure throughout the region.

"As your local community newspaper, we're committed to supporting small businesses, promoting shop local and showcasing the incredible talent of artisans throughout Dufferin County and the Greater Toronto Area," said Janine Taylor, HollyFest event manager.

"We're excited to bring this festive celebration to Orangeville," said Taylor. "Our goal is to create an annual tradition that the community and visitors alike will look forward to each holiday season."

The show will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 22 and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 23.

To stay up to date with event news, follow "Orangeville HollyFest" on Facebook and Instagram.

Vintage airplanes soar into Dufferin for Centennial Celebration

Written By PAULA BROWN
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

Aviation enthusiasts flew into Dufferin County for a special event commemorating the centennial anniversary of an aircraft pivotal to the history of aviation.

Members of the International Moth Airplane Club, also known as the de Havilland Moth Club, welcomed historic aviation enthusiasts at Martin Airfield in East Garafraxa on Saturday (July 5) to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the de Havilland DH.60 Moth, a British two-seat touring and training aircraft.

“A small percentage of pilots like vintage aircrafts. As a community, we take an interest in the mechanics, rebuilding them, putting them together and flying them, and we share the passion and knowledge with each other,” said Dan Garyfalakis, who co-organized the event with Andy Scott. “To be able to bring us all together in a celebration of this genius man, Geoffrey de Havilland, 100 years later, and to see all his creations being loved and flown with this enthusiastic group is wonderful.”

The DH.60 Moth is a British light biplane designed by Geoffrey de Havilland and was first flown in February 1925. The aircraft was built between 1925 and 1934 for both private use and pilot training, and was the original aircraft type issued to all flying clubs in Canada in 1928. The Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF) had 91 DH.60 Moth airframes from January 1928 to May 1948.

Roughly 35 to 40 planes flew into the local airstrip on Saturday to commemorate the 100-year milestone of the pivotal aircraft.

The oldest plane at the event was a 1928 DH.60 Moth owned by Garry Comber, which flew in from Gatineau, Que.

The DH.60 Moth in Comber’s care was manufactured in England in 1928 and shipped to Canada for reassembly in 1929. The Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF) took possession of the aircraft on April 23, 1929 and posted it to High River, Alberta, for pilot training and forestry fire patrol. In 1930, the plane crashed in Saskatchewan and was rebuilt by de Havilland in Canada over a three-month period.

During the 1930s and 1940s, the aircraft found itself in the care of a number of hands, including the Hamilton Aero Club, Leavens Brothers Air Services and a private owner.

After years in storage, it was bought by Watt Martin, the namesake of Martin Airfield, and rebuilt from 1980 to 1989, during which it was refitted with a Gypsy II engine. In 2022, Comber purchased the plane from an American and had it restored to Canadian airworthiness standards at Martin Airfield.

“I have no personal tie to the Royal Canadian Air Forces, but I love history and airplanes. I wanted to do something for the aviation industry in Canada and I didn’t understand why the plane was in the United States; it belongs here in Canada. I thought I could contribute and it’s not often an opportunity like this comes around,” said Comber.

The 1928 DH.60 Moth is considered the oldest airplane still flying that was once part of the RCAF.

Comber plans to keep the plane – also known as a Gypsy Moth – flying until it’s 100 years old and will eventually donate it to the National Aviation Museum of Canada in Trenton.

Another unique plane showcased at the event was a Thuxton Jackaroo, owned by Steve Gray.

The Thuxton Jackaroo is a four-seat cabin biplane conversion of the de Havilland Tiger Moth that was developed in the mid-1950s. Only around 19 Tiger Moths were ever modified into the Thuxton Jackaroo.

Gray’s Jackaroo was brought to Canada in 1970 by a British man, who ended up later selling it to two men in Guelph, who took on the restoration of the aircraft. As a youth, Gray recalled taking rides in the Jackaroo, but told the Free Press he never expected to one day own it.

PROUD OWNER: Dan Garyfalakis, who co-organized the event with Andy Scott, stands with a Tiger Moth plane, which is a later version of the Gypsy Moth.

Around 25 years ago, Gray purchased half of the plane’s ownership and was later bequeathed the remaining half in a will.

“It’s unique because it’s the only one on this side of the planet. I never thought someday I’d own it, but I like to say the ownership is temporary and I’m looking after it until the next person. These airplanes should outlast the owners, and as a historical piece of work you want to keep it going,” said Gray.

Today, there are only a handful of Jackaroos that are still flying around the world, and Gray’s is the only one in Canada.

Margo and Gary Schroeder arrived at the 100th anniversary event in their 1940s WACO UPF7, part of their collection of antique planes.

The couple own and operate a scenic open-cockpit biplane tour company, called Canadian Barnstormers Inc., based out of Guelph.

Speaking with the Free Press, Margo shared why it was important for them to attend the centennial milestone celebration.

“We’ve made a living flying old airplanes,

and de Havilland airplanes have been really good to us,” she said.

Over the last two years, the tour company has flown over 1,000 trips. Their collection currently consists of two flying planes and six planes in the process of restoration.

“You’re experiencing the last of the purest form of powered flight that’s remaining,” said Gary, who also pilots the planes. “What a gift to get to share this with people.”

To close out the 100-year celebration, the members of the International Moth Airplane Club organized their Moth airplanes to create a “100,” which could be seen from the sky.

SHOWTIME: A de Havilland Otter 438 plane made an appearance at the 100th anniversary event at the Martin Airfield.

Mansfield Cubs U15 AA improve record after win over Muskoka

Written By BRIAN LOCKHART

The Mansfield Cubs U15 AA got the bats moving early in their game against the Muskoka Hornets on the diamond in Mansfield on Saturday, July 5.

So far this year, the Cubs have been quiet until the mid-game innings, but in this game they started off early and it paid off.

The Cubs opened the scoring in the second inning, led off by a single from Corey Coe, then followed up with a run batted in to take a 1-0 lead.

Hudson Milliard batted in a run followed by two runs that scored on a hit from Callen Swan to give the Cubs a 4-0 lead in the early going.

They had more success in the third inning when Ty Hamilton hit to bring in a run and Blake Pyle blasted one into deep field to bring in two runs.

The Cubs were ahead 8-0 when Brayden Foulds hit to left field to allow another run to score.

The Hornets made it on the scoreboard in the fifth inning with a single run.

In the fifth inning, the Cubs loaded the bases, and another run came in when Mason Fogal got a hit.

The game was called on the 10-run mercy rule and the Cubs left the field with a 12-2 win.

Cubs players told the Free Press they thought they played a good game.

"I think getting runs early on really helped us because we couldn't put runs later in the game," said Ty Hamilton. "We were hitting well. We were hitting line-drives into the field and that helped us score all of our runs."

Hamilton's teammate Callen Swan said he thought the team came well prepared for the game.

"I think we were well put together today, and we came to play early," Swan said. "We played a good team and we put the runs up early which put the pressure on them. They

The Cubs will be back on their home diamond in Mansfield on Tuesday, July 15, to host the Barrie Baycats. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Warriors dominate Samurais, Knights stun Gladiators in low-scoring but thrilling cricket match

Written By BRIAN LOCKHART

Weekend action on the cricket pitch at KTH Park in Shelburne saw a couple of exciting matches.

Warriors versus Samurais

In the first match, the Warriors were up against the Samurais.

The Warriors made a strategic call to bowl first after winning the toss.

The Warriors bowling struck early and often, reducing the Samurais to only 51 runs.

The disciplined attack kept up the pressure.

Leading the charge was Deep Singh, who bowled with precision and intensity to earn Man of the Match honours.

The Warriors chased down the target easily, and wrapped up a clinical win over the Samurais.

Knights versus Gladiators

In the second match of the weekend, the Gladiators chose to bat first but found themselves restricted to just 84 runs thanks to the Knight's sharp bowling and fielding.

It was a respectable target on a tricky surface, but the Knights flipped the script with a stunning bowling effort of their own.

The Knights tore through the Gladiators' line-up, dismissing them for only 68 runs, to claim a 15 run victory.

Suresh Sudhakaran had a superb all-around performance, earning him Man of the Match for his crucial wickets and steady contributions when swinging the bat.

Tactical bowling and standout individual efforts defined this week's matches with the Warriors and Knights both sending a strong message to the rest of the league.

Shelburne Sports and Culture Club and DCC host OCC for weekend cricket match at KTH Park in Shelburne

Written By BRIAN LOCKHART

The Shelburne Sports and Culture Club (SSCC) and the Dufferin Cricket Club (DCC) hosted the Orangeville Cricket Club (OCC) for a match on the pitch at KTH Park in Shelburne on June 28.

It was a low-scoring but highly competitive tennis ball game.

After winning the toss, the DCC's batsmen struggled in the opening of the match, finishing on 85 for eight off their allotted 18 overs with RV Manshahia scoring 24.

Himanshu scored 14, and Deep and Jainish chipped in with 12 each.

There were 13 extras.

In response, the OCC went to the target in 16.3 overs, with extras top scoring with 24.

That was followed by Meet with 13, Zeb with 11, Rohit with 10, and Captain Ricky with nine.

Bowling for the DCC, Onkar was the pick of the bowlers with four for 14 in his five overs.

He was well supported by Himanshu who picked up two for 21 of his five overs, and RV Manshahia, who got two for 23 in 2.3 overs.

RV Manshahia, of the DCC, was Man of the Match for his knock of 24 and his two for 23.

The two clubs have planned a seven game hardball series over the next few weeks.

Mavericks win over Phoenix in Game 1 of cricket series

The Dufferin Cricket Club has started a best-of-seven series between the Shelburne Phoenix and the Orangeville Mavericks with the first game taking place on Sunday, July 6, at KTH Park in Shelburne.

In Game 1 of the series, the Mavericks stormed to a convincing 73 run victory.

The Phoenix batted first in this match and were bundled out for 159 in 19.4 overs, with extras contributing the most with 45 runs.

It was Sarthak's classy innings of 38 that was the stand out, anchoring the Maverick's total with confident stroke play and sharp running between the wickets. He was supported by Sahil Bedi who added 27.

Phoenix bowlers did show some spar with Keyur Patel claiming 3 for 44, while RV Manshahia and Jasmeet chipped in with 2 wickets each.

In the second inning the Phoenix struggled to respond. The Phoenix faltered under scoreboard pressure, collapsing for just 86 runs.

Once again, extras (24) featured prominently, followed by Onkar with 22, and Shivam with 19.

The Maverick's bowling attack was relentless, but it was Sarthak who once again stole the show, adding 3 wickets for just 7 runs in 3 overs, to cap off a brilliant all-round performance.

Sarthak was awarded Man of the Match.

The Mavericks now lead the series 1-0 with the next match coming up this weekend.

Upper Grand District School Board approves roughly $550 million combined budget

Written By SAM ODROWSKI

The 2025-2026 school year budget for the Upper Grand District School Board (UGDSB) was recently approved by board trustees.

The budget was developed over several months and focuses on the priorities outlined in the board's Multi-Year Plan (MYP).

However, ensuring the $499.9 million operating budget and $49.7 million capital budget were balanced and compliant wasn't without challenges, according to the UGDSB.

"The budget is balanced and compliant with Ministry of Education requirements. However, it does not come without risks. Cost pressures exist in several non-classroom, service areas. Staff have worked to pare down non-classroom expenses in services areas across the organization," reads a UGDSB press release.

UGDSB chair Ralf Mesenbrink commented on concerns around the sustainability of reducing expenses.

"We have approved a balanced budget for 2025-26 that remains true to our Multi-Year Plan goals and continues the direction given by the board two years ago with respect to funding reading and mathematics supports beyond what is funded by the government. This was accomplished through the thoughtful, strategic work of staff, paring non-classroom expenses to the bone," said Chair of the Board, Ralf Mesenbrink. "Some of these expense reductions, however, are not sustainable year after year."

Operating revenues for the 2025-2026 budget include $489.3 million in Core Education Funding from the provincial government and $10.6 in other revenue sources.

Of the total revenue, instruction-related expenses such as staffing costs $417.5 million, school facilities costs $42.9 million, school transportation costs $26.6 million, and central service departments costs $12.8 million.

UGDSB Director of Education Peter Sovran shared his outlook on the budget document for 2025-2026.

"This budget is more than a balancing of revenue and expenses for another year — it's a commitment to staying focused on our priorities," said Sovran. "It keeps classroom-based learning, student outcomes, and enriched educational experiences at the center of everything we do as we work together to realize Vision 2026+."

He added, "This balanced budget carries risks. Reductions in some service areas mean our ability to replace non-critical assets may be delayed, response times for staff supports could lengthen, and innovation initiatives might slow."

The District 18 Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation (OSSTF) union in Upper Grand delegated at a recent UGDSB board meeting, where a petition was presented with over 650 signatures from education workers, parents and supporters.

The petition requests that the Government of Ontario increase annual government investments in public education and provide immediate and dedicated funding to address the backlog of school repairs and maintenance needed to ensure a safe school environment. The petition also asks the province to end the recruitment and retention crisis to ensure students have the teachers and education workers needed to support their success.

UGDSB trustees unanimously approved a motion to write a letter to the Ministry of Education expressing concerns with chronic underfunding in education throughout Ontario, following the OSSTF delegation.

Mesenbrink said "constant budget pressures" as a result of chronic underfunding leave him "concerned about the future" of education in the board and across the province.

The UGDSB has over 35,000 students enrolled across its 65 elementary schools and 11 secondary schools in Guelph, Wellington and Dufferin County.

The board employs more than 4,000 education and support staff who are aided by the contributions of volunteers and community partners.

In a report last year, the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives found that Ontario's core education funding has dropped by $1,500 per student since 2018.

"Hidden Nature" by Nora Roberts: Surviving a near-fatal shooting, injured Maryland Natural Resources Police officer Sloan Cooper moves back to her hometown and investigates mysterious disappearances across three states with some help from the new man in her life.

Why Rose recommends it: Nora Roberts is an author who is able to write well across genres. I enjoy her "In Death" series written as J.D. Robb, and have come to enjoy her standalones as well. Some of you may be familiar with Roberts as a result of her more gentle and well-known romance series, but I warn you, Hidden Nature is not one of those.

Hidden Nature amplifies the grit of the "In Death" series 10-fold as we learn bit by bit that Sloan suspects there is a serial killer on the loose. There is a very interesting and loving relationship that is juxtaposed with very sinister characters, which is a new twist for Roberts.

Dufferin OPP respond to driving under suspension, impaired driver and numerous holiday week charges

Commercial motor vehicle driver charged with driving under suspension in Shelburne

Dufferin Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) officers charged a North York resident with several Highway Traffic Act (HTA) offences following a commercial motor vehicle (CMV) stop in Shelburne.

On July 7, shortly before 11 p.m., Dufferin OPP officers were conducting a general patrol in the area of County Road 124 in Shelburne when they observed a CMV that drew the attention of an officer. A traffic stop was initiated, and during the interaction with the male driver, officers identified multiple HTA violations, prompting a further investigation.

A 55-year-old male from North York has been charged with:

- Driving while under suspension
- Fail to accurately complete daily inspection report
- Speeding 1 - 49 Km/h over posted limit

The accused individual is scheduled to appear before the Ontario Court of Justice in Orangeville. The 55-year-old male's driver's licence was suspended, and his vehicle was impounded.

The listed charges have not been proven in court.

Shelburne man faces impaired driving charges after traffic stop

Dufferin Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) officers charged a Shelburne resident with impaired driving-related offences following a traffic stop on June 30.

Shortly after 1 a.m., Dufferin OPP officers were on general patrol in the area of County Road 11 in Amaranth when they observed a vehicle having difficulty maintaining its lane.

A traffic stop was conducted by police, and during the interaction with the male driver, officers noted signs of impairment, prompting them to begin an impaired driving investigation.

As a result of the investigation, Maxwell

Duck, 22, from Shelburne, has been charged with:

- Operation while impaired - blood alcohol concentration (80 plus)
- Operation while impaired - alcohol and drugs
- Young driver - B.A.C. above zero
- Fail to surrender insurance card
- No mudguards
- Improper tires
- Driving motor vehicle with open container of liquor

The accused individual is scheduled to appear before the Ontario Court of Justice in Orangeville.

His driver's licence was suspended, and his vehicle was impounded following the traffic stop. The listed charges have not been proven in court.

Nearly 450 charges laid by OPP through Canada Day week

It was a busy week for Dufferin Ontario

Provincial Police (OPP) officers.

The police service laid 442 charges against motorists from June 27 to July 6, with a focus on traffic enforcement for the "Big Four" offences - impaired driving, distracted driving, speeding and failure to wear a seatbelt.

Several RIDE Spot Checks were also set up by Dufferin OPP officers throughout the week-long campaign.

"The statistics speak for themselves-some drivers are still not getting the message," reads a press release from Dufferin OPP.

The following charges were laid during the campaign:

Speeding - 247, Stunt/racing - 10, Distracted driving - 5, Impaired driving - 10, Failure to wear seatbelt - 49

"Dufferin OPP would like to thank the majority of road users who obey the laws and help keep our roads safe. We also extend our gratitude to our hardworking officers for their dedication and efforts last weekend in protecting our communities," said Dufferin OPP.
